Both Heart Patients Show Improvement

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Heart transplant patient Philip Blaiberg had a tearfully happy reunion with his 20-year-old daughter Jill in Groote Schuur hospital today.

Miss Blaiberg arrived from Israel Monday night to see her father, who two weeks ago underwent the world's third human heart transplant. The girl is a student in Israel.

"I was a bit weepy," the smiling blonde girl said as she left the hospital. "He also had tears in his eyes. We grinned at each other like Cheshire cats. He looks marvelous. He's different—happy and healthy like the man I knew as a young girl."

Blaiberg's heart disease had aged him considerably, but his wife and doctors have said he looks years younger since a new heart was grafted into his body Jan. 2.

A hospital bulletin said Blaiberg's condition continues to be very satisfactory.

In Stanford, Calif., Mike Kasperak entered his 10th day with a new heart on an encouraging note, though remaining in critical condition.

"Kasperak's heart function continues to be satisfactory," said the latest Stanford University Medical Center Bulletin, issued Monday.

It noted moderate improvement following an operation Sunday to remove the gall bladder. Kasperak's liver function was "returning slowly to normal," physicians said, and the crisis with his liver may be over.

NASA Tests Air Mix; Flight Off

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Pressed for time, U.S. space officials begin testing "enriched air" Wednesday as a safer substitute for the pure oxygen atmosphere that fed the fire which killed three astronauts early last year atop their rocket at Cape Kennedy.

Pressed for money, the agency has junked a 1970 pure science research flight using secret reconnaissance photography techniques. The decision to scrap the flight was made Dec. 27 but acknowledged only Monday.

The atmosphere decision was reached Saturday by a board of space scientists named after the tragedy to assure the fire safety of future American spacecraft.

They acted after a dummy of the new, more fireproof Apollo command ship flunked five of 38 burn tests in which Manned Spacecraft Center engineers purposely short-circuited its wiring. Control panels, cables and soundproofing material blazed unacceptably.

Wednesday, testing resumes with the ship filled with a mix of 60 per cent oxygen and 40 per cent nitrogen, intended to keep overheated wiring from so easily triggering fires. The air we breathe is 78 per cent nitrogen, 21 per cent oxygen and the rest, traces of rare gases.

British Austerity Program Includes Troop Cutbacks

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced today the withdrawal of all British armed forces from the Far East and the Persian Gulf by the end of 1971.

Unfolding his austerity program before the House of Commons, he also announced a campaign to slash benefits in social welfare.

Although the intention is to leave the Far East by 1971, Wilson said his government was prepared to continue aiding Britain's Commonwealth partners in Southeast Asia through a "joint air defense system for Malaysia and Singapore." Britain will also train personnel to operate the system.

Wilson announced cancellation of a contract to purchase 30 American F111 swing-wing bombers at a cost of $1.02 billion.

The prime minister was grim faced as he rose in the House of Commons to announce details of the Labor government's drive to make Britain solvent.

Princess Margaret was in the gallery sitting near Wilson's wife.

The prime minister said Britain's future foreign role will have to depend on its ability to pay.

"We have to come to terms with our role in the world," Wilson declared.

He told the House Britain will retain its bases in Europe from which forces can be deployed overseas in time of conflict.

The prime minister said the F111 cancellation will mean a saving to this country of $960 million even when penalty costs for cancellation are taken into consideration.

His announcement of the cancellation brought cheers from Labor benches in the House.

Wilson's statement will be followed by a two-day debate, beginning Wednesday. At its conclusion Thursday will come a vote of confidence in which the government is assured of victory by the Labor party's Commons majority of 85 votes. But Wilson may have to accept the resignation of a minister or two whose favorite projects were treated especially rough.

Wilson's aim is two-fold: to shift $2.4 billion in national resources—money, manpower and materials—from production for domestic consumption and other nonessentials to production for export by fiscal 1970-71; and to mop up $1.2 billion to $1.4 billion in domestic purchasing power this year through taxation, restrictions on installment buying and possibly forced savings so that money cannot be spent or goods which should be exported.

Devaluation of the pound made British goods potentially competitive on world markets, and the purpose of the new program is to make the goods available for sale abroad.

Sunshine Returns To Buckeye State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Colder temperatures moved into Ohio today with a prospect of some warming trends later in the wake of heavy snows and cloudy skies since the weekend.

Temperatures dropped to below zero in some spots, setting new records, as the cold Canadian air moved in.

Snow removal crews were gaining the upper hand on snow-clogged primary and secondary highways, but some rural area schools still remained closed.

Butler Heads Newark Probe

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Mayor James H. Alexander says he and Safety Director James Butler will head an investigation into operations of Newark's police department.

Butler's announcement came Monday night after City Council President Robert Weaver said the council lacked authority to make the investigation.

Licking County grand jurors last week reported that a study of the police department showed lack of cooperation between shifts and an unprecedented drop in morale.

Emergency Cash Asked in Inkster

DETROIT (AP)—Seventy parents, teachers and community leaders from the Detroit suburb of Inkster will ask the Michigan State Legislature today for an emergency sum of $900,000 to keep Inkster schools from closing Feb. 5.

Dr. Edward B. Forte, school superintendent, said the plight stems from state law regarding educational financing and from gerrymandering some 20 years ago.

ed because their buses could not operate.

The storm which hit Ohio now has moved to the northern New England Coast, while in the Buckeye state sunshine came after the temperatures began to climb at mid morning.

However, the Weather Bureau reported that clouds were to continue to be variable over the state with occasional snow flurries mostly over the northwest. Highs today were expected to reach only into the 20s and low 30s.

Traffic on highways was returning to normal, although the State Highway Department reported primary and secondary roads snow covered in the northwest and north central portions and some snowy and wet spots on the east end of the Ohio Turnpike where 40 m.p.h. speed was maintained.

Fair skies were predicted for today, with some snow flurries in the southeast corner of the state — in sharp contrast to the weekend storm that dumped up to 20 inches in hardest hit areas.

The storm was blamed for 21 deaths in Ohio, including five persons who died Monday in the Cleveland area of heart attacks suffered after shoveling snow. Most of the other victims also died after shoveling snow.

The State Highway Department said Monday it cost $900,000 to clear 18,000 miles of roads in the state. The department, with 800 maintenance crews working, dumped 35,800 tons of salt on Interstate, U.S. and state routes during the weekend.

But travelers warnings continue in northeast and eastern Ohio because of strong winds whipping the snow into drifts.

Many secondary roads were closed.

Sicily Quake Death Toll Reaches 300

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — The casualty toll in Sicily's catastrophic earthquake moves steadily up today as new tremors spread more panic through the devastated western tip of the Mediterranean's largest island.

The unofficial toll rose to more than 300 dead, nearly 1,500 persons missing and more than 1,500 injured. Officials said with that many missing, the final death toll might be 500 or 1,000.

As new waves of undulating shocks toppled ruined walls in shattered communities, a growing army of rescue workers fought against the clock in a desperate search for buried survivors still alive under the ruins.

Gigantic bonfires lit up the snowy fields and vineyards where thousands of refugees spent the night in the open. Families salvaged chairs and tables from the rubble of their villages, eating bread and milk brought by rescue workers and reliving the catastrophe before dawn Monday.

Tens of thousands of survivors of the island's worst earthquake in 60 years spent the freezing night out of doors, wrapped in all the clothes they could find and in blankets rushed in by rescue teams.

Several more tremors rolled through the area during the night, convincing the survivors of the desirability of remaining outside.

Even in the two largest cities of western Sicily, Palermo and Trapani, where there was no serious damage, hundreds bedded down in cars and tents.

The havoc Monday evoked memories of the terrible earthquake of 1908 that crumpled the city of Messina and took 75,000 lives.

The greatest blow Monday was the collapse of an emergency hospital at Montevago. About 200 persons were believed killed in the wreckage. Another 100 persons were reported missing at Montevago.

Gibellina, with 7,000 inhabitants, was totally destroyed and so was the smaller town of Salaparuta. The major part of eight other towns was badly damaged.

God Sued For Damages

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — God—and his agents in Lake Worth—are being sued for $25,000 by an accident victim whose injuries were attributed by a jury to an act of God.

The man, who identified himself as George Albrecht, an electrician, paid a $17.50 filing fee and handed assorted circuit court clerks copies of his allegations to distribute to the defendants.

They include 32 Lake Worth churches and synagogues lumped by the plaintiff under the term "God and Co."

Albrecht claimed he was injured in 1964 when a rain-soaked sidewalk collapsed under him. The defendants in the first suit were a construction firm and the city of Lake Worth, a suburb of West Palm Beach.

FAMILY TRAGEDY — Police work to remove the bodies of eight persons, including seven from one family, from a two-car crash on a road west of Ottumwa, Iowa. It was one of the worst in the state's history. All seven members of the Richard Baber family were killed as well as the driver of the other car, Terry Chidester, 25, of Blakesburg.

State Rests Case in Halleck First Degree Murder Trial

The state rested its case Tuesday in the first degree murder trial of Carl E. Halleck, accused of the jailbreak slaying of Ironton Police Chief W. E. Markel.

Monday, Lawrence County Prosecutor Dennis Callahan called Clyde Bowers of Coal Grove, a Lawrence County Home resident, and Edgar Sanders of Ashland, Ky. who was employed at the laundry at the home.

The two witnesses testified they had seen Halleck, who was also an employee of the laundry of the county home, talk to Chief Markel on several occasions when the chief visited the home.

Sanders was brought here from Ashland where he is being held in jail on a burglary charge. Also on the stand yesterday was Dr. Harry Nenni, Lawrence County coroner. Dr. Nenni said Chief Markel died approximately five minutes after being shot. He attributed death to internal bleeding caused by a bullet which severed a large artery in the chief's heart.

JOSEPH Martina, Columbus, a former assistant superintendent of the London Bureau of Criminal Investigation, was also on the stand Monday.

Martina, presently the chief security officer of F & R Lazarus Co., was in charge of the BCI team that assisted in the investigation of the shooting.

Martina stated he was present when the fatal bullet was removed from Markel's body. He declared on the stand that it "positively" came from the revolver which witnesses had earlier stated Halleck took from Coal Grove Policeman Kenneth Sites.

The former BCI investigator also said the gun of Deputy Larry Chapman, taken by William T. Bailey who initiated the abortive escape attempt, fired the bullet that critically wounded Ironton Police Officer Charles Giles.

Giles was expected to appear today as a witness for the defense. He was permanently paralyzed as a result of the wound he sustained in the jail break.

Martina further explained to the jury there were no fingerprints were taken from the guns (Continued on Page 2)

Revised Bond Issue Seeks $850 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Any hope for bipartisan agreement on congressional redistricting — if there was any — collapsed Monday night as the 107th Ohio General Assembly went back to work after a 4½-month recess.

The lawmakers faced another major piece of business today — the introduction of an $850 million administration-backed bond issue for highways and capital improvements.

Gov. James A. Rhodes had earlier proposed two bond issues — $700 million for highways and $265 million for capital improvements. The revised proposal, to be introduced by Stark County Republican Sen. Ralph Regula, cuts the highway money to $550 million and includes $40 million for higher education.

Members plodded through snow and icy highways to begin the unusual even-year session under a court-ordered Jan. 28 deadline to even up populations in Ohio's 24 congressional districts.

The original plan was to ask legislative approval of two bond issue proposals to go before voters May 7. The highway measure would have been accompanied by a $265 million capital improvements proposal that included only $5 million for higher education, construction at Cleveland State University.

Under the new proposal, half the highway money would go to local governments in direct grants to help them ease their most pressing traffic problems. The State Highway Department would use $115 million for state projects, $100 million would go into the Appalachian Highway in southern Ohio, $30 million for the highway research and development center planned near Bellefontaine and $30 million would be used to build access roads to state parkland.

Other major spending areas: Water pollution control, $100 million to provide the state's share in what could be a $400 million program, with the state, local governments and (Continued on Page 2)

New Fights Hit China

HONG KONG (AP) — Fighting among workers over wide differences in their pay and "unknown political reason" killed and wounded hundreds last week in Red China's Kwangtung Province, travelers from the mainland reported today.

The travelers said workers from neighboring Hunan Province were paid at a vastly different rate than those from Kwangtung, the southern province which borders Hong Kong for their work at a military airport just north of Canton.

"The clashed came to light only when villagers at Turtle Hill Valley saw trucks moving dead bodies at dusk as well as heavy troop movements along the highway there," one traveler said.

There was no way to confirm the travelers' reports.

Fishing Boat Nets Missile

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — A shrimp boat crew netted an armed air-to-air missile in the Gulf of Mexico and brought it to a dock here where Air Force crews disarmed it, military spokesmen said Monday.

George Brazeale, skipper of the shrimp "Valhalla," said he and his two-man crew reeled in the 150-pound Sparrow missile Saturday from 110 feet of water west of Key West, Fla.

An Air Force spokesman said the six-foot missile, fanned on each end, was armed with high explosive.

Alleged Disaster Loan Favoritism Raises Storm

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government refuses to say why it lent a prominent Alaska Democrat nearly all he asked for and cut in half the request of the state's Republican governor after the Fairbanks flood damaged their neighboring motels last August.

The Small Business Administration, which lent the money, would say no more than who got how much. But it insisted politics was not involved.

The Budget Bureau refused to tell what caught the eye of fledgling lawyer Robert M. Weinberg when he spotted the loans in a routine budget check and referred them to his superiors.

The largest loan in the wake of the August flood of the Chena River, $894,000, went to L. Donald Pruhs' Golden Nugget Motel. Until a month ago, Pruhs was chairman of the Democratic central committee for the Alaskan interior. He's now a member of the party's state central committee.

Employed as a supervisor in Pruhs' contracting firm is Alex Miller, Alaska's Democratic national committeeman.

The loan required no higher approval than that of the SBA's San Francisco office, but government sources reported that Pruhs retained a Washington attorney to help him get it.

Involved was a regular SBA loan of about $690,000—previously approved but not paid—combined with a $200,000 damage claim into a disaster loan, which carries a lower interest rate and allows the borrower an additional 20 years to repay.

Across the street from Pruhs' 38-unit Golden Nugget, which opened last May, is the 106-

room Travelers Inn, owned by Republican Gov. Walter J. Hickel.

Larger and built on lower ground, it suffered—by Pruhs' own estimate—greater flood damage.

Hickel asked the SBA for $1.2 million, including the refinancing of two mortgages. He got $623,400. The governor's brother, Vernon, who manages the Travelers Inn, said the agency gave him scant help in refinancing the mortgages—and cut back his damage request nearly $100,000 to about $475,000.

In a telephone interview,

Pruhs said he estimated damage to his motel at "slightly over $200,000." But his disaster loan is for $894,000.

"It's a little confusing," Pruhs said. "When I built the Golden Nugget, I applied for a regular SBA loan for about $690,000. The money was too tight here in Alaska for me to borrow it privately.

"It was approved, and we were about to sign the final papers when the flood hit. With the damage, I told the SBA I'd go bankrupt if the loan weren't refinanced. They agreed, and the entire $894,000 loan was classified as a disaster loan."

The interest rate on regular small business loans of this type is between 5 and 6 per cent, SBA officials said—repayable in 10 years. Now Pruhs will have 30 years to pay back the loan—at the 3 per cent disaster rate.

Contacted by telephone in Anchorage, manager Hickel of the Travelers Inn recalled: "Most of our valuable property is on the first floor—restaurant, bar, 50 rooms. We had 20 inches on that floor. We had to replace rugs, bedding, furniture, almost everything. (Continued on Page 2)

Rocky Asks Big Boost In Taxes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller asked the New York State Legislature today to raise personal income and eight other taxes by $494 million to balance a proposed $5.5-billion state budget.

The Republican governor called for a 20 per cent surcharge on the income tax and substantial increases in the levies on liquor, gasoline, pari-mutuel racing, corporations, small businesses, banks, utilities and insurance premiums.

Rockefeller said the tax increases are necessary to provide more state aid for education, Medicaid and other welfare programs.

With the $500 million increase in state aid, his proposed budget would be $5,494 billion—$856 million above the current level of $4,638 billion.

Solon Hits Magazine

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Charles J. Carney D-33 Youngstown took the GOP administration's "Wonderful World of Ohio" magazine to test Monday night and asked for an explanation of its "sorry state of affairs."

Carney asked Senate approval of a resolution urging Gov. James A. Rhodes, the administrator, and "any other persons responsible" to re-examine the magazine's over-all policy and goals.

The Youngstown Democrat said Rhodes predicted that when the magazine was started in 1965 that it would reach a monthly circulation of 300,000. But, the senator added, the circulation has reached only 55,000 and last year needed a $400,000 subsidy from other departments to stay in business.

Under the new proposal, half the highway money would go to local governments in direct grants to help them ease their most pressing traffic problems. The State Highway Department would use $115 million for state projects, $100 million would go into the Appalachian Highway in southern Ohio, $30 million for the highway research and development center planned near Bellefontaine and $30 million would be used to build access roads to state parkland.

New Fights Hit China

HONG KONG (AP) — Fighting among workers over wide differences in their pay and "unknown political reason" killed and wounded hundreds last week in Red China's Kwangtung Province, travelers from the mainland reported today.

The travelers said workers from neighboring Hunan Province were paid at a vastly different rate than those from Kwangtung, the southern province which borders Hong Kong for their work at a military airport just north of Canton.

"The clashed came to light only when villagers at Turtle Hill Valley saw trucks moving dead bodies at dusk as well as heavy troop movements along the highway there," one traveler said.

There was no way to confirm the travelers' reports.

Fishing Boat Nets Missile

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — A shrimp boat crew netted an armed air-to-air missile in the Gulf of Mexico and brought it to a dock where Air Force crews disarmed it, military spokesmen said Monday.

George Brazeale, skipper of the ship "Valhalla," said he and his two-man crew reeled in the 150-pound Sparrow missile Saturday from 110 feet of water west of Key West, Fla.

An Air Force spokesman said the six-foot missile, fanned on each end, was armed with high explosive.

Alleged Disaster Loan Favoritism Raises Storm

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government refuses to say why it lent a prominent Alaska Democrat nearly all he asked for and cut in half the request of the state's Republican governor after the Fairbanks flood damaged their neighboring motels last August.

The Small Business Administration, which lent the money, would say no more than who got how much. But it insisted politics was not involved.

The Budget Bureau refused to tell what caught the eye of fledgling lawyer Robert M. Weinberg when he spotted the loans in a routine budget check and referred them to his superiors.

The largest loan in the wake of the August flood of the Chena River, $894,000, went to L. Donald Pruhs' Golden Nugget Motel. Until a month ago, Pruhs was chairman of the Democratic central committee for the Alaskan interior. He's now a member of the party's state central committee.

Employed as a supervisor in Pruhs' contracting firm is Alex Miller, Alaska's Democratic national committeeman.

The loan required no higher approval than that of the SBA's San Francisco office, but government sources reported that Pruhs retained a Washington attorney to help him get it.

Involved was a regular SBA loan of about $690,000—previously approved but not paid—combined with a $200,000 damage claim into a disaster loan, which carries a lower interest rate and allows the borrower an additional 20 years to repay.

Across the street from Pruhs' 38-unit Golden Nugget, which opened last May, is the 106-

room Travelers Inn, owned by Republican Gov. Walter J. Hickel.

Larger and built on lower ground, it suffered—by Pruhs' own estimate—greater flood damage.

Hickel asked the SBA for $1.2 million, including the refinancing of two mortgages. He got $623,400. The governor's brother, Vernon, who manages the Travelers Inn, said the agency gave him scant help in refinancing the mortgages—and cut back his damage request nearly $100,000 to about $475,000.

In a telephone interview, Pruhs said he estimated damage to his motel at "slightly over $200,000." But his disaster loan is for $894,000.

"It's a little confusing," Pruhs said. "When I built the Golden Nugget, I applied for a regular SBA loan for about $690,000. The money was too tight here in Alaska for me to borrow it privately.

"It was approved, and we were about to sign the final papers when the flood hit. With the damage, I told the SBA I'd go bankrupt if the loan weren't refinanced. They agreed, and the entire $894,000 loan was classified as a disaster loan."

The interest rate on regular small business loans of this type is between 5 and 6 per cent, SBA officials said—repayable in 10 years. Now Pruhs will have 30 years to pay back the loan—at the 3 per cent disaster rate.

Contacted by telephone in Anchorage, manager Hickel of the Travelers Inn recalled:

"Most of our valuable property is on the first floor—restaurant, bar, 50 rooms. We had 18-20 inches on that floor. We had to replace rugs, bedding, furniture, almost everything.

Viet Ground Action Brings Casualties to Both Sides

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong soldiers killed 14 South Vietnamese infantrymen and wounded 32 in their third ambush of the day Monday, but the Vietnamese caught up with the guerrillas eight hours later and killed 40, South Vietnamese headquarters reported.

The South Vietnamese were ambushed in the coastal lowlands 357 miles northeast of Saigon, while U.S. troops reported two ambush attempts on American supply convoys 75 miles apart in the central highlands.

U.S. spokesmen said 37 Communists and three Americans were killed in the two clashes, and 23 Americans were wounded. They said damage to the convoys was light.

South Vietnamese headquarters also reported that last week was one of the bloodiest of the war for government troops, with 357 soldiers killed, 946 wounded and 110 missing or captured. The high casualties resulted from a Communist offensive that began just after the New Year's truce.

Many of the casualties were militiamen, hit when guerrillas attacked outposts.

The government also reported

2,216 Communist soldiers were killed last week, 605 by government troops and 1,611 by American and other allied forces. U.S. weekly casualty figures will not be announced until Thursday.

U.S. Command reported one other firefight Monday, a 25-minute clash 59 miles northwest of Saigon and nine miles from the Cambodian frontier. Four men of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division were killed and 29 wounded.

The Communists pulled back under bombardment by U.S. fighter-bombers, artillery and helicopter gunships and pressure from a second American company, but Communist casualties were not known.

In retaliation, eight-engine U.S. B52 bombers raided suspected Communist troops concentration points in the area today. The Stratofortresses also unloaded tons of bombs for the second day in a row on suspected North Vietnamese concentrations and staging areas north of Khe Sanh, the U.S. Marine stronghold in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

American pilots flew 121 missions against North Vietnam Monday, thrusting above Hanoi for their first attack on the Thai Nguyen steel fabrication plant since last spring. The number of missions was the highest since 144 on Jan. 6.

Ship, 3 Barges Collide, Explode

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The freighter Christiane smashed into a string of gasoline-laden barges in the Houston Ship Channel today turning the water into a blazing inferno as the volatile fuel exploded in sheets of flame.

Two American tourists, the captain's wife and 3-year-old daughter, and 27 officers and crewmen scrambled into the ship's lifeboats and fled through the fiery waters. State police said they had no reports of serious injuries.

The collision occurred about 12:30 a.m. just south of a highway tunnel between the suburbs of Baytown and La Porte, which is 30 miles southeast of Houston.

The Christiane, a 372-foot craft of Liberian registry owned by Christiane Shipping Co. of Bermuda; was outbound toward Port Arthur, Tex., when it struck the barges being pushed by the tugboat Barbara Waxler.

One barge was empty but the other two bore 30,000 barrels of high octane gasoline which exploded, spraying fire across the chilly waters of Upper Galveston Bay.

Help was quick because rescue units along the heavily industrialized waterway had just finished dealing with an explosion.

Stock List Eases Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Gains and losses were about equal early this afternoon as weakness in blue chips continued to depress averages. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.33 at 891.41.

Aside from profit taking on early 1968 strength of blue chips, the reason most often cited for current action was extreme uncertainty over President Johnson's forthcoming messages to Congress.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .4 at 323.3 with industrials off 1.5, rails up .1 and utilities up .2.

Prices were higher on the American Stock Exchange.

"We did pretty well on the reconstruction and replacement part of our loan—but they still cut us back nearly $100,000. And they wouldn't give us the help we needed on the two mortgages."

"... I honestly don't think we were equitably dealt with. You could see it all through town. It was really lopsided—right down political lines. You go through this town and see who got what and who didn't, and check their party hookups."

"What upset some people around here is that they all weren't treated by any consistent formula. There was no consistent application of the loan standards, if you follow me."

Said SBA Administrator Moot:

"When you have a number of loan officers of varying backgrounds, you get a wide range of judgments, from liberal to tight. In the cases you're talking about, the judgments were certainly within our criteria."

"There were some judgments I probably wouldn't have made. But then, I wasn't on the scene."

"I think this is an area where we can tighten our belts."

Actors Join Fund Raising For 'Doves'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hollywood and Broadway actors are launching a drive to raise campaign funds for six senators and congressmen whose outspoken opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam may threaten their chances for re-election in November.

Actor Paul Newman and his actress wife Joanne Woodward head a star-studded list of show business celebrities slated to participate in a fund-raising show Sunday night in New York for the Congressional Peace Campaign Committee.

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, and Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., are national co-chairmen of the committee.

The drive is scheduled to be unveiled at a news conference here today by actors Tony Randall and Alan Arkin, and the senators and representatives whose campaigns warchests are to benefit from the committee's efforts.

They are Sens. Ernest Gruening of Alaska, and Wayne L. Morse of Oregon and Reps. George E. Brown Jr. and Phillip Burton, both of California and Ryan and John G. Dow, both of New York. All are Democrats.

Among entertainment headlines scheduled to appear at the New York performance in Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall are Harry Belafonte, Barbra Streisand, Leonard Bernstein, Carl Reiner, Diahann Carroll, Tommy Smothers, Robert Ryan and the husband-wife acting couple of Eli Wallach and Anne Jackson as well as Newman and Miss Woodward.

House members received an administration bill creating an Ohio Water Development Authority to issue bonds for water pollution control facilities.

In addition to redistricting, the $850 million bond issue and the water pollution proposal, the lawmakers are being asked to approve measures calling for court reform, teacher and public employee retirement benefit increases, stronger riot control laws, and several constitutional amendments including a property tax break for elderly homeowners.

The redistricting plan was offered in the upper chamber by Sen. Robin T. Turner R-14 Marion and Sen. Stanley A. Aronoff R-8 Cincinnati. It appears to be the GOP "vehicle" despite a administration plan being readied for introduction today by Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray R-3 Miami.

The Turner-Aronoff plan would allow population variations up to 9.5 per cent, giving drafters flexibility to protect all incumbent GOP congressmen who dominate Ohio's delegation lines in all but six instances.

Negro Rep. Thomas E. Hill D-41 Cleveland prepared a Democratic plan reportedly after prompting of the Congress of Racial Equality. Hill said his plan created districts "with straight lines and very few bends so no one could contend it was gerrymandered. Observers noted however that it would create a virtually all-Negro 20th District in Cuyahoga County, a stated aim of the Cleveland CORE Chapter "to send a Negro congressman to Washington."

Sen. David S. Holcomb R-6 Dayton introduced a bill that would place authority in the statute for public employers to bargain with employee unions.

Other bills offered in the Senate would create a state agency to issue bonds for capital improvements at private colleges and universities, reimburse school boards for transportation of retarded pupils, deny admission to state-supported schools of persons convicted on violating riot laws, and permit counties to contract for emergency ambulance service.

Jaycees Plan DSA Fete at 4-H Building

Circleville Jaycees will hold their 1968 Distinguished Service Awards Banquet 6:30 p. m. Monday at the 4-H and Grange Building.

This year the Jaycees have added a new award, Outstanding Young Educator. John Fox, an instructor at Logan Elm, is acting as chairman.

Bill Richards, a 1967 National Outstanding Young Farmer, will present this year's award to the Outstanding Young Farmer in Pickaway County.

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, 1967 Outstanding Young Man, will make this year's presentation. Bill Stout will make the presentation of the award to the Senior Division.

Dr. Richard Mall, alumni secretary of Ohio State University, will be the guest speaker. Dr. Mall is better known as the Judge on Columbus television "Traffic Court." Ed Johnson, will be the master of ceremonies. The Jaycee DSA Banquet is being held during the national observance of Jaycee Week, Jan. 21 - 27.

THIS morning, Hobart Slagle, who was a prisoner in the Lawrence County Jail, testified he heard the four prisoners plotting the escape.

Other prisoners involved in the escape were Bailey, Donald Jenkins and Ronald Brown. Bailey was killed during the escape.

Jenkins and Browning are serving life terms in the Ohio Penitentiary.

The first witness for the defense was Mrs. Lillian Holt, Pedro, an employee of the Lawrence County Home. She appeared as a character witness, and stated that Halleck had performed his duties well as an employee of the home.

Commissioners Seek Bids for Jail Windows

Pickaway County Commissioners announced yesterday they will re-advertise for sealed bids for new windows on the third floor of the county jail.

Commissioners earlier turned down a bid submitted by J. Boyd Stout Co. to replace the windows. The new bid specifications will be posted on the bulletin board just outside the commissioners office in the courthouse.

In other business yesterday, the commissioners received a letter from the state department of agriculture approving the appointment of Andrew Malysk as apary inspector.

They also received a report of the operation of the clothing center. The center is operated by the Circleville Council of Church Women.

Mrs. Walter Jones is chairman. The report noted that 9,000 articles of clothing had been placed during 418 family visits to the center. Nearly one-third of the articles were for children.

Congressional Leaders Still Demand Spending Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The money message from Capitol Hill to the White House as Congress reassembled wasn't changed from last year: President Johnson must cut spending if he wants a tax hike.

There was little official action Monday with the launching of the second session of the 90th Congress but there was talk domestic spending must be cut.

Although spending was a key issue on the first day of the session, the House took time to authorize pay increases for administrative assistants to top congressional leaders.

This action allows the assistants to get the same pay hikes voted by Congress last year for other federal workers at the similar salary range of $26,000 to $28,000.

In other opening-day congressional developments:

—Sources said that while Johnson's package of tax revision proposals may reach Congress this spring, it's unlikely there will be a push for passage until next year at the earliest.

—Speaker John W. McCormack urged Congress to try to adjourn by Aug. 1, guaranteeing members sufficient time to campaign for the fall elections.

—The Senate adjourned until the President's State-of-the-Union message Wednesday night. On Thursday it launches debate on a bill to protect Negroes and civil rights workers from racially motivated violence.

—Some 3,000 women came to Washington to tell Congress they want the Vietnam war stopped. They were led by former Rep. Jeannette Rankin, 87, of Montana. Miss Rankin was the only member of Congress to vote against America's entry into both World War I and World War II.

Sen. David S. Holcomb R-6 Dayton introduced a bill that would place authority in the statute for public employers to bargain with employee unions.

Other bills offered in the Senate would create a state agency to issue bonds for capital improvements at private colleges and universities, reimburse school boards for transportation of retarded pupils, deny admission to state-supported schools of persons convicted on violating riot laws, and permit counties to contract for emergency ambulance service.

because they had been handled and prints were badly smudged. He also said a paraffin test was not made of Halleck to determine if he had fired a gun because of the time lapse involved. Martina said he first saw Halleck ten to 12 hours after the shooting.

THIS morning, Hobart Slagle, who was a prisoner in the Lawrence County Jail, testified he heard the four prisoners plotting the escape.

Other prisoners involved in the escape were Bailey, Donald Jenkins and Ronald Brown. Bailey was killed during the escape.

Jenkins and Browning are serving life terms in the Ohio Penitentiary.

The first witness for the defense was Mrs. Lillian Holt, Pedro, an employee of the Lawrence County Home. She appeared as a character witness, and stated that Halleck had performed his duties well as an employee of the home.

Armand Thomas, a superintendent of the home, testified that Halleck was employed there. Under cross examination, Thomas said that he had seen Halleck speak to Chief Markel on at least two occasions.

Mrs. Mona Lee Morrison, one of the original 12 jurors, became sick and had to be replaced. Mrs. Elizabeth Reichmanis, the second alternate, took her place.

There is still one alternate remaining. He is Willard Speakman, Route 4. Mrs. Lois Campbell was earlier placed on the jury to fill the vacancy of Robert Frazier, Stoutsville, when he became ill before testimony had begun in the trial.

Commissioners Seek Bids for Jail Windows
Pickaway County Commissioners announced yesterday they will re-advertise for sealed bids for new windows on the third floor of the county jail.

Commissioners earlier turned down a bid submitted by J. Boyd Stout Co. to replace the windows. The new bid specifications will be posted on the bulletin board just outside the commissioners office in the courthouse.

In other business yesterday, the commissioners received a letter from the state department of agriculture approving the appointment of Andrew Malyk as apiary inspector.

They also received a report of the operation of the clothing center. The center is operated by the Circleville Council of Church Women.

Mrs. Walter Jones is chairman. The report noted that 9,000 articles of clothing had been placed during 418 family visits to the center. Nearly one-third of the articles were for children.

Congressional Leaders Still Demand Spending Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The money message from Capitol Hill to the White House as Congress reassembled wasn't changed from last year: President Johnson must cut spending if he wants a tax hike.

There was little official action Monday with the launching of the second session of the 90th Congress but there was talk domestic spending must be cut.

Although spending was a key issue on the first day of the session, the House took time to authorize pay increases for administrative assistants to top congressional leaders.

This action allows the assistants to get the same pay hikes voted by Congress last year for other federal workers at the similar salary range of $26,000 to $28,000.

In other opening-day congressional developments:

—Sources said that while Johnson's package of tax revision proposals may reach Congress this spring, it's unlikely there will be a push for passage until next year at the earliest.

—Speaker John W. McCormack urged Congress to try to adjourn by Aug. 1, guaranteeing members sufficient time to campaign for the fall elections.

—The Senate adjourned until the President's State-of-the-Union message Wednesday night. On Thursday it launches debate that members say could develop into a filibuster on a civil rights bill to protect Negroes and civil rights workers from racially motivated violence.

—Some 3,000 women came to Washington to tell Congress they want the Vietnam war stopped. They were led by former Rep. Jeannette Rankin, 87, of Montana. Miss Rankin was the only member of Congress to vote against America's entry into both World War I and World War II.

Ship, 3 Barges Collide, Explode

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The freighter Christiane smashed into a string of gasoline-laden barges in the Houston Ship Channel today turning the water into a blazing inferno as the volatile fuel exploded in sheets of flame.

Two American tourists, the captain's wife and 3-year-old daughter, and 27 officers and crewmen scrambled into the ship's lifeboats and fled through the fiery waters. State police said they had no reports of serious injuries.

The collision occurred about 12:30 a.m. just south of a highway tunnel between the suburbs of Baytown and La Porte, which is 30 miles southeast of Houston.

The Christiane, a 372-foot craft of Liberian registry owned by Christiane Shipping Co. of Bermuda; was outbound toward Port Arthur, Tex., when it struck the barges being pushed by the tugboat Barbara Waxler.

One barge was empty but the other two bore 30,000 barrels of high octane gasoline which exploded, spraying fire across the chilly waters of Upper Galveston Bay.

Help was quick because rescue units along the heavily industrialized waterway had just finished dealing with an explosion and fire two hours earlier and 12 miles upstream at a Shell Chemical Co. plant. Four men were hurt, one critically, in that unrelated mishap.

Tourists aboard the freighter were Mr. and Mrs. Heber M. Gingerich of York, Pa. They went aboard the Christiane with their car a week ago in Honduras. They planned to debark at New Orleans and drive home.

Stock List Eases Down
NEW YORK (AP) — Gains and losses were about equal early this afternoon as weakness in blue chips continued to depress averages. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.33 at 891.41.

Aside from profit taking on early 1968 strength of blue chips, the reason most often cited for current action was extreme uncertainty over President Johnson's forthcoming messages to Congress.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .4 at 323.3 with industrials off 1.5, rails up .1 and utilities up .2.

Prices were higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Actors Join Fund Raising For 'Doves'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hollywood and Broadway actors are launching a drive to raise campaign funds for six senators and congressmen whose outspoken opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam may threaten their chances for re-election in November.

Actor Paul Newman and his actress wife Joanne Woodward head a star-studded list of show business celebrities slated to participate in a fund-raising show Sunday night in New York for the Congressional Peace Campaign Committee.

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, and Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., are national co-chairmen of the committee.

The drive is scheduled to be unveiled at a news conference here today by actors Tony Randall and Alan Arkin, and the senators and representatives whose campaigns warheads are to benefit from the committee's efforts.

They are Sens. Ernest Gruening of Alaska, and Wayne L. Morse of Oregon and Reps. George E. Brown Jr. and Phillip Burton, both of California and Ryan and John G. Dow, both of New York. All are Democrats.

Among entertainment headlines scheduled to appear at the New York performance in Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall are Harry Bel

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren
Girl in Trouble Asking for More

DEAR ABBY: My daughter wrote a letter to you, but she didn't mail it. I found it on her desk. Everything she wrote was true, but she left out a few important facts. Here is her letter:

"Dear Abby,
I am a 16-year-old girl "in trouble," and my mother refuses to let me get married. The boy I'm going with is 19 and wants to marry me. We've gone together for seven months. My mother THINKS she is going to send me to a home for unwed mothers and get me to give the baby up, but she is altogether mistaken and I have told her so.

CARES'
Abby, I think you ought to know that my daughter is not yet 16. The boy is married but not living with his wife. He says he will get a quick divorce and marry my daughter, but in my eyes he will make a very poor husband.
I want her to go to a home for unwed mothers and give her baby up, but she doesn't want to.
Abby, is it such a terrible thing for a girl to give her baby to a family who can give

LSD Blindness Site Disputed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A state senator says he will reveal where six Pennsylvania college students were blinded by the sun while taking LSD some 18 months ago.
Sen. Benjamin R. Donolow, D-Phila., scheduled a news conference for 3 p.m. EST today following a report by the Philadelphia Inquirer in its Tuesday morning editions that the incident occurred at Edinboro State College, near Erie.
The Erie Morning News, however, said it learned from reliable sources that Edinboro was not the school involved, a view shared by the school's president, Chester T. McNeerney.

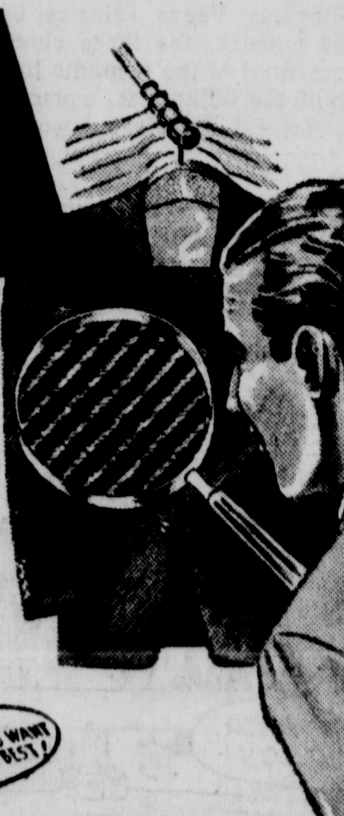

Approve Merger Of Electric Firms

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Therm-O-Disc, Inc., stockholders approved Monday a merger with Emerson Electric Co. of St. Louis, Mo., which produces electrical and electronic products and systems.
Emerson will acquire the assets and assume the liabilities of Therm-O-Disc, manufacturer of bimetallic thermostatic devices. Therm-O-Disc stockholders will receive .76 shares of Emerson common stock for each share of Thermo-ODisc stock.

Set Up Practice Car Check Station

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A demonstration examination station, to resemble those to be used in the Ohio Highway Patrol's random check of motor vehicles, will be set up Thursday at the Patrol Academy here.
The patrol said it will probably start checking cars in February under the state's new random car inspection.

Garrison Probe Still Puzzle After Year's Efforts

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Back when big Jim Garrison's Kennedy assassination probe was new he said: "The key to the whole case is through the looking glass. Black is white, white is black."

The cryptic Alice in Wonderland allusion puzzled many at the time. But it proved to be an accurate description. A year later, it still applies.

About the only thing the Warren Commission and Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison agree on is the date of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, slain in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963.

In the conflicting versions, black often does become white—if you take that to mean that opposite conclusions are drawn from the same circumstances.

Now Garrison's controversial case—with its reverse English approach to one of the century's great crimes—is due to be tested in court, under legal rules of evidence.

F. Irving Dymond, a defense lawyer for Clay L. Shaw, said the Orleans Parish (county) Criminal District Court trial is tentatively set for Feb. 13.

The charge against Shaw, which he emphatically denies, is conspiring to murder the president.

Shaw is 54, a tall, lean, wealthy, well-tailored retired businessman with craggy features. His silvery hair lies flat in tight, precise waves. He was an army major in World War II. He says he hasn't the faintest idea why Garrison accused him of plotting to kill Kennedy.

"The defense will not seek a continuance," Dymond said. "Of course, we will have a few motions to make before the trial."

The motions, Dymond added, may include a request for a change in venue. If granted, this would switch the trial to some other Louisiana judicial district. Garrison, however, could remain as prosecutor.

Shaw was the first to be charged in Garrison's probe.

Arrested March 1, 1967, he has been free under $10,000 bond and it is not unusual to see him enjoying an evening out at one of the city's plush restaurants.

The 46-year-old, 6-foot-6 district attorney packs a small pistol under his coat and has a political reputation as a fast draw with a sweeping statement. He snapped back at his critics with USTO.

"The involvement of high officials of the U.S. government in the affair becomes more and more apparent," he says.

Among other things, Garrison said FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover was warned five days in advance that an assassination attempt would be made in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963. And he repeatedly accused President Johnson of having "actively concealed evidence about the murder of his predecessor"—a reference to the secret label on some aspects of the investigation.

White House spokesmen shrug off the statements.

There was no comment from the FBI—or from another frequent Garrison target, the Central Intelligence Agency, which he accused of covering up evidence.

Garrison bases his case on his contention that the assassination was a devious conspiracy involving several men—and that the conspiracy originated in New Orleans.

This runs counter to the official report of the Warren Commission which investigated the assassination. It says former New Orleans resident Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, shot the president. But the commission said it had found no evidence that Oswald was part of any conspiracy.

Other examples of Garrison's black versus white include:

In the commission view, Oswald was motivated by, among other factors, a sore ego, hostility toward society and a commitment to Marxism and communism. Not so, says Garrison. He says Oswald was anti-Communist, a CIA agent and was set up as a "patsy" by other conspirators who found out he was an undercover man.

Garrison lists Jack Ruby, the Dallas strip joint owner who killed Oswald in a Dallas police station, as a conspirator. The commission said it found "no sign of any conduct" which suggests that he was involved in the assassination.

And so it goes.

A conspiracy charge similar to the one against Shaw was filed Dec. 20 against Edgar E. Eugene Bradley, 49, of North Hollywood, Calif. It differs in that it does not name any of the "others" in the alleged conspiracy.

Bradley said he will fight extradition from California. "This man is either being highly paid to do this or he's off his rocker," he said.

Garrison has kept the activities of his investigators secret as much as possible. When public accounting of expenditures gave hints of their operation, he turned to private sources for money.

A group of businessmen formed Truth and Consequences of New Orleans, Inc., and chipped in to form an operating fund. Cochairman Joseph M. Rault Jr., a wealthy oil man, said the secretive organization remains unchanged, despite the growing controversy.

"Our position is the same as it was at the start," he said. "We supply the money for the investigation. We leave the rest to the courts."

Dear Abby:

Girl in Trouble Asking for More

DEAR ABBY: My daughter wrote a letter to you, but she didn't mail it. I found it on her desk. Everything she wrote was true, but she left out a few important facts. Here is her letter:

"Dear Abby, I am a 16-year-old girl 'in trouble,' and my mother refuses to let me get married. The boy I'm going with is 19 and wants to marry me. We've gone together for seven months. My mother THINKS she is going to send me to a home for unwed mothers and get me to give the baby up, but she is altogether mistaken and I have told her so.

CARES" Abby, I think you ought to know that my daughter is not yet 16. The boy is married but not living with his wife. He says he will get a quick divorce and marry my daughter, but in my eyes he will make a very poor husband.

I want her to go to a home for unwed mothers and give her baby up, but she doesn't want to.

Abby, is it such a terrible thing for a girl to give her baby to a family who can give

LSD Blindness Site Disputed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A state senator says he will reveal where six Pennsylvania college students were blinded by the sun while taking LSD some 18 months ago.

Sen. Benjamin R. Donolow, D-Phila., scheduled a news conference for 3 p.m. EST today following a report by the Philadelphia Inquirer in its Tuesday morning editions that the incident occurred at Edinboro State College, near Erie.

The Erie Morning News, however, said it learned from reliable sources that Edinboro was not the school involved, a view shared by the school's president, Chester T. McNeerney.

Garrison Probe Still Puzzle After Year's Efforts

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Back when big Jim Garrison's Kennedy assassination probe was new he said: "The key to the whole case is through the looking glass. Black is white, white is black."

The cryptic Alice in Wonderland allusion puzzled many at the time. But it proved to be an accurate description. A year later, it still applies.

About the only thing the Warren Commission and Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison agree on is the date of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, slain in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963.

In the conflicting versions, black often does become white—if you take that to mean that opposite conclusions are drawn from the same circumstances.

Now Garrison's controversial case—with its reverse English approach to one of the century's great crimes—is due to be tested in court, under legal rules of evidence.

F. Irving Dymond, a defense lawyer for Clay L. Shaw, said the Orleans Parish (county) Criminal District Court trial is tentatively set for Feb. 13.

The charge against Shaw, which he emphatically denies, is conspiring to murder the president.

Shaw is 54, a tall, lean, wealthy, well-tailored retired businessman with craggy features. His silvery hair lies flat in tight, precise waves. He was an army major in World War II. He says he hasn't the faintest idea why Garrison accused him of plotting to kill Kennedy.

"The defense will not seek a continuance," Dymond said. "Of course, we will have a few motions to make before the trial."

The motions, Dymond added, may include a request for a change in venue. If granted, this would switch the trial to some other Louisiana judicial district. Garrison, however, could remain as prosecutor.

Shaw was the first to be charged in Garrison's probe.

Arrested March 1, 1967, he has been free under $10,000 bond and it is not unusual to see him enjoying an evening out at one of the city's plush restaurants.

The 46-year-old, 6-foot-6 district attorney packs a small pistol under his coat and has a political reputation as a fast draw with a sweeping statement. He snapped back at his critics with USTO.

"The involvement of high officials of the U.S. government in the affair becomes more and more apparent," he says.

Among other things, Garrison said FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover was warned five days in advance that an assassination attempt would be made in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963. And he repeatedly accused President Johnson of having "actively concealed evidence about the murder of his predecessor"—a reference to the secret label on some aspects of the investigation.

White House spokesmen shrug off the statements.

There was no comment from the FBI—or from another frequent Garrison target, the Central Intelligence Agency, which he accused of covering up evidence.

Garrison bases his case on his contention that the assassination was a devious conspiracy involving several men—and that the conspiracy originated in New Orleans.

This runs counter to the official report of the Warren Commission which investigated the assassination. It says former New Orleans resident Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, shot the president. But the commission said it had found no evidence that Oswald was part of any conspiracy.

Other examples of Garrison's black versus white include: In the commission view, Oswald was motivated by, among other factors, a sore ego, hostility toward society and a commitment to Marxism and communism. Not so, says Garrison. He says Oswald was anti-Communist, a CIA agent and was set up as a "patsy" by other conspirators who found out he was an undercover man.

Garrison lists Jack Ruby, the Dallas strip joint owner who killed Oswald in a Dallas police station, as a conspirator. The commission said it found "no sign of any conduct" which suggests that he was involved in the assassination.

And so it goes. A conspiracy charge similar to the one against Shaw was filed Dec. 20 against Edgar E. Bradley, 49, of North Hollywood, Calif. It differs in that it does not name any of the "others" in the alleged conspiracy.

Bradley said he will fight extradition from California. "This man is either being highly paid to do this or he's off his rocker," he said.

Garrison has kept the activities of his investigators secret as much as possible. When public accounting of expenditures gave hints of their operation, he turned to private sources for money.

A group of businessmen formed Truth and Consequences of New Orleans, Inc., and chipped in to form an operating fund. Chairman Joseph M.

Rault Jr., a wealthy oil man, said the secretive organization remains unchanged, despite the growing controversy.

"Our position is the same as it was at the start," he said. "We supply the money for the investigation. We leave the rest to the courts."

Man Certifies Himself Dead

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A San Antonio man has pleaded guilty to writing himself off as dead and buried. Edward A. Williams Jr., 29, a funeral home manager, pleaded guilty to filing his own death certificate and was sentenced to a year in prison. Dist. Court Judge Archie Brown stayed the sentence pending a probation report and released Williams on a $2,500 bond.

Authorities said a loan company, after receiving a copy of the death certificate, had paid off a $1,500 insured note on Williams' car.

Bank Bandits

Bank robberies in the United States and Canada are obviously on the increase. For all except those immediately concerned, they have become just another piece of news. For some mysterious reason that lies deep in the human consciousness, robbing a bank is regarded as a less serious crime than robbing an individual.

It is this which probably accounts for public apathy. There is no outcry against these depredations. No demand is heard that the police do something to abate this crime epidemic.

Diplomatic Privileges

Diplomats are not so important now as they were in the past. Radio, cable, teletype and telephone keeps the home government at their elbow. Prime ministers, presidents and cabinet ministers travel more frequently around the world on diplomatic missions.

Embassies compile agendas, arrange banquets and accommodations for retinues of under-secretaries, secretaries of under-secretaries, interpreters and specialists on this and that who accompany "summit" personalities, instead of conducting vital, high-level discussions as they did in pre-1940 days.

Nations are spending more on their embassies than ever. It has become a matter of prestige. No longer is it enough to have a bay-windowed villa with the flag drooping outside.

Ambassadorial importance has declined in inverse proportion to the growth of embassies. Embassy staffs have increased enormously, perhaps in obedience to Parkinson's Law which maintains that "paper work" is self-multiplying — it produces more paper work which requires more staff, which requires more staff, ad infinitum.

Nationals in embassies are increasingly claiming diplomatic immunity. There have been instances of embassy cooks and chauffeurs claiming immunity from the laws of the country to which their ambassador is accredited.

After the Napoleonic Wars, the nations were in a conciliatory mood and part of the peace settlement at the Congress of Vienna in 1815 was a codification of ancient diplomatic privileges which had grown up with custom since Biblical times.

Now they obviously need overhauling. Changes in international diplomacy in a century and a half suggest the time has come for a fresh view.

Mobutu's Broken Promises

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The U.S. State Department and the CIA, apparently acting on the theory that any government is better than no government, support the regime of President Joseph Mobutu in the Congo. This, in a rough — a very rough — way, makes sense. Mobutu has drawn back from taking the "revolutionary" way of adhering to the Soviet-Nasser line in world affairs; he has kept his Israeli military advisers despite pan-arab pressure; and, with the help of three U.S. planes, he has managed to hold the Congo together. But someone should tell him that a promise is a promise, and that the spider that invited the fly into its parlor is not something to be imitated by statesmen who need the world's trust in order to live.

The kidnapping of Moise Tshombe, ex-Premier of the Congo, was Mobutu's first attempt to break the fabric of international trust in order to wreak bloody vengeance on his enemies. Tshombe, an accepted resident in Spain, was seized over the Mediterranean by plane hijackers, who took him to Algeria. But Mobutu has not yet managed to prevail upon Algeria's President Boumedienne to permit the extradition of Tshombe for trial and execution on a "treason" charge in the Congo. Reports from Algiers indicate that Boumedienne may let Tshombe go free.

No matter what the sins of Tshombe may have been, his kidnapping was an illegal act, a betrayal of the promises that go with the right of asylum and the right to unmolessted travel. Now Mobutu is trying to strike at the sanctity of promises in another direction. He has asked that the white mercenaries who were evacuated by the International Red Cross from the Congo to little Rwanda should be handed over to his tender mercies for a trial that could end only in a mass hanging party.

No doubt the one hundred mercenaries who sought protection in Rwanda after holding out for a long time at Bukavu in the Congo are no better than they should be. But the point is that they gave up their Congo inscription only after they had received promises from the International Red Cross that they would be repatriated to their own countries. The Organization of African Unity, with headquarters in Addis Ababa in Ethiopia, had invited the Red Cross to evacuate the mercenaries to Rwanda after Mobutu had promised that he would not seek their extradition. Well, nobody expects the spider to behave in a trustworthy manner toward a fly, so the Mobutu who tried to catch Moise Tshombe in spite of international law could be considered to be acting in character when he double-crossed the Red Cross.

But the Organization of African Unity has no business going back on its word. Nor has the U.S. State Department any business sitting still while Mobutu forgets his own promises.

Senator Tom Dodd of Connecticut has sent a telegram to Secretary of State Dean Rusk urging that the U.S. protest to President Kayianda of Rwanda the proposed extradition of one hundred mercenaries. The International Red Cross, in a communication signed by its President Conrad, has already made its feelings known. But something more than a protest is needed. The U.S. has influence with Mobutu, who has depended on our planes for mobility inside his own country. It also has influence with the more moderate members of the Organization of African Unity. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's recent trip to Liberia, Ethiopia, Kenya, and other African nations offers an index to the African capitals that might be disposed to keep the OAU from breaking its collective word in the case of the mercenaries.

As for Mobutu, he doesn't know the value of leaving well enough alone. If the mercenaries, under the wily leadership of Colonel Jean Schramme, had not been promised sanctuary and repatriation to their own countries by the Red Cross and the OAU and Mobutu himself, they would still be racking around in the Congo. And Mobutu, lacking the firepower and control of jungle communications necessary to catch Schramme, would still be chasing the mercenaries. Mobutu made a good deal for himself in getting Schramme out of there on promises that the mercenaries would not return. This ought to satisfy everybody; broken promises and a new orgy of bloodletting will only mean more trouble for the Congo tomorrow.

The STAG party's slogan—to be printed on its buttons—will be "We Can't Stand Pat—Paulsen for Prexy." And it will feature bumper stickers which will destroy themselves in three months.

And—seriously, folks, as they say in TV—the Paulsen for President put-on will be a big item on the comedy-variety show until early September when, after the two major parties have had their conventions, the STAG convention will be held on camera.

The noncandidate will reveal some of his noncampaigning plans Wednesday night on "The Johnny Carson Show"—if some other noncandidates don't get out an injunction against him before that.

Thursday night's 90-minute Bob Hope Christmas show will be unruffled without any commercials beyond the preliminary announcement about the name of the single sponsor presenting the program.

ABC has set Jan. 28 as the date to show the 1965 "Ship of Fools," which will run on a Sunday night for two hours and 45 minutes—from 9 p.m. to 11:45 EST, which means without very much editing.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A GREAT HORSE, favorite for the Kentucky Derby, found itself domiciled in a Louisville stable between two rather stolid steeds who weren't able to converse intelligently on any subject for more than three minutes. The great horse gave up after several vain attempts, neighing disgustedly to a trainer, "I'm stalling between two fools."

Don Sauer, founder of the American Society of Girl Watchers, has just published a new version of his invaluable guide. It is described as "a book for the red-blooded man who would rather look at a girl than a hedge sparrow," and is selling, because of the miniskirt vogue, at an unprecedented rate. "The first thing the serious girl watcher must do," cautions Prof. Sauer, "is sweep his mind clear of lesser subjects. For instance, he should not watch girls while pouring hot coffee." In parting, the good professor reminds us that distance lends enchantment. "A girl watcher who asks a stranger for her name and phone number," he moralizes, "is like a bird watcher who steals eggs!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

For the past two winters my daughter, aged 5, develops severe spells of croup. They absolutely terrify her and us, her parents. What causes croup and is there any way to avoid these attacks.

Mrs. C. M., Illinois
Dear Mrs. M.: Croup is probably one of the most distressing conditions for a young infant, the parents and the physician. Fortunately, severe attacks of croup are becoming less frequent than they were before the discovery of the antibiotics and cortisone.

Croup is an inflammation and infection of the lining of the throat, the larynx, or windpipe, and the lungs. The disease occurs most frequently in infants and young children who have a narrow windpipe. As the child grows older, swelling of the lining of the windpipe does not as easily interfere with breathing. The disease tends to occur most frequently in the late winter or the early spring.

Virus and streptococcus infections cause a sudden thickening of the mucous membrane and produce a thick material which interferes with breathing. Difficulty in breathing may suddenly follow an ordinary cold. High fever and a barking cough identifies croup.

Steam inhalations are probably the most soothing treatment for the difficulty in breathing and the barking cough. Physicians frequently suggest that the child be held in the mother's arms in a bathroom filled with steam until they can arrive to treat the child with other methods.

There are many excellent cold and warm vaporizers which produce a great deal of moisture. An open umbrella covered by a sheet makes an excellent steam tent.

The use of medicines in the steam vaporizer is virtually worthless. Benzoin, menthol and camomile tea are pleasant smelling but have no medical contribution to the health of the child or for the relief of croup.

Antibiotics are given in larger doses along with cortisone preparations in order to control the infection and to reduce the swelling of the mucous membrane of the windpipe.

When croup becomes severe the best place, of course, is in a hospital that is prepared to handle this special problem. Oxygen is sometimes used along with a variety of aerosol solutions to cut down the thickness of the secretions in the lungs.

Attacks of croup can very often be reduced if infected tonsils and adenoids are removed. Allergic children may benefit from the use of antihistamines during their allergic periods.

It is almost impossible to keep children free of colds, no matter how well they are isolated and protected. Parental and grandparental kissing games other than on the arms and the back of the neck should be discouraged. Croup is an unpleasant condition which, fortunately, is far more easily controlled.

NEW YORK (AP) — The best counsel ever received by many of America's small businessmen has come to them free. But for those who gave it, few expenses have been more profitable. Now I can go on to get more business."

Gross received no money for his services, but a clue to his motivation was found in his SCORE application: "I will never be able to give back to America what America gave to me," said Gross, a native of Cincinnati.

There are some 3,000 men like Gross in 180 SCORE offices around the country—lawyers, engineers, accountants, bankers, advertising men, sales managers — offering their brains ideas and knowhow to small businessmen.

"We're all vital guys who don't want to vegetate," said Arthur Littman, 69, president of New York SCORE. "All these fellows," he said, "want to use their lime and talent, serve their fellow man. It keeps them alive."

Said the proprietor, whose business now is on the road to profits: "He was just like a good, good friend. I just wouldn't have had any business otherwise. Now I can go on to get more business."

SCORE, now about four years old, was organized by the Small Business Administration and is still sponsored by that agency. SBA provides the office space and the clerical help. Beyond these, modest expenses, SCORE costs neither the government nor its client any money except for minor out-of-pocket costs. Yet it is willing to accept the headaches and save the life's work of almost any small businessman who applies.

In fact, you don't have to be in business yet to obtain SCORE advice. "Many times we discourage people planning to go into business," said Littman. And sometimes SCORE's advice to an existing company is to close its doors.

How would a retired executive apply for a counselor job? Simply by writing to his nearest small business administration office, whose address and number is listed in the telephone directory.

"We turn down very few applicants," said Littman.

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you forging ahead or falling behind in the old rat race?

Just as you go to the doctor for an annual physical overhaul, it is wise to give your status a periodic checkup, for in our civilization a fellow who has lost his status is in a social graveyard — whether he knows it or not.

But how can one be sure, since sometimes when your best friend won't tell you?

Well, here's a simple status test gratis. You're still climbing up the ladder, if —

You have more credit cards in your wallet than you do pictures of your family.

Other guys in the office washroom stand respectfully aside when you reach for a towel to dry your hands.

You received 10 more Christmas cards last year than you did the year before.

The bookies call you to see if you want to place any racetrack bets instead of waiting for you to phone them.

Either you take a winter vacation in Florida or manage — sometime between the first of January and the middle of March — to attend an important business convention in Arizona, Honolulu, Puerto Rico or the Bahamas.

Whereas formerly you used to take your family ice skating at a local pond, you now take them for a weekend at a ski resort.

You are considering taking up polo because the people you meet on golf links these days seem to have become so dreadfully common. Naturally, you gave away your bowling ball long ago.

Most of the groceries your family consumes are delivered to the rear door, and you settle the bill by check.

Your wife puts in more time at her hairdresser's than used to spend shopping for bargains at the supermarket.

The reason that you don't make an annual contribution to your college's alumni fund isn't that you can't afford to — it's because of annoyance that you haven't been elected yet to the board of trustees.

If there are any leftovers in your refrigerator, the maid is the one who has to eat them.

The gin you drink in your martini is bottled for you by a snobbish little old bootmaker in Britain who sells only to a clientele that has been especially recommended.

When your pet dog gets sick, you don't take him to the veterinarian. You are so important that the veterinarian makes a house call.

The house you live in has more bathrooms than the number of rooms in the house you were born in.

Instead of playing the numbers game, you now play the stock market. You like to brag when you make a killing even though, as you admit ruefully to close friends, "it'll only muddy my tax picture."

In your home you keep a pistol and rifle hidden, just in case the Communists should change their tactics and attack the outer suburbs where you live.

Now and then you wonder whether the game is worth the candle.

Brother, you don't have to worry about lack of status. Your problem is to keep from being suffocated by status.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next season television's Daniel Boone will have to prowl the wilderness without his Oxford-educated Indian pal, Mingo. Ed Ames is cutting out on his own.

Ames made the announcement today: He will not return for a fifth season of "Daniel Boone," in which he stars with Fess Parker. Whether or not the series itself will be back has not yet been decided, but its ratings this year seem to be good enough to warrant a return.

Why would an actor pull out of a successful television series? Ames explained:

"The simple truth is that the show has served its purpose for me. It performed the very valuable function of providing tremendous exposure for me over a four-year period. The placing of my name before a huge audience week after week was an enormous advantage to my career.

"On the other hand, I believe I was of some assistance to "Daniel Boone." I did a great number of personal appearances to help plug the series. And I think that Mingo was a strong character that contributed to the effectiveness of the show. But now it's time to move on."

The career of Ed Ames offers an example of how talent and drive can be combined to keep a career moving forward against a variety of hazards. Along with older brothers Kole, Gene, and Vic, he starred on records and in night clubs with the Ames Brothers — real name: Urlick. Despite Las Vegas salaries of $20,000 a week, the three elder Ames were tired of the nomadic life and quit the business for normal lives. Not Ed. He started working in plays off-Broadway at $80 a week.

Roles in "The Crucible," "Fantomask" and "Carnival" convinced producers Ames was more than a quartet singer, and the call came for "Daniel Boone." Most actors in successful series are content to rest on their residuals. Again the Ames ambition prevailed.

He polished up his vocal style and began making single records. After a number of near-misses, he hit with "My Cup Runneth Over." The title was prophetic. Offers for guest starrings in TV variety shows poured in. Ames spent a bundle to work up a night club act which paid off in munificent bookings; he is now playing in Las Vegas.

Britain is trying to get U.S. gangsters out of its gambling industry. A pound of cure, it's called.

Governor Romney stopped in Israel on his foreign tour. He probably wanted to find out how to win a six-day campaign.

Bank Bandits

Bank robberies in the United States and Canada are obviously on the increase. For all except those immediately concerned, they have become just another piece of news. For some mysterious reason that lies deep in the human consciousness, robbing a bank is regarded as a less serious crime than robbing an individual.

It is this which probably accounts for public apathy. There is no outcry against these depredations. No demand is heard that the police do something to abate this crime epidemic.

Diplomatic Privileges

Diplomats are not so important now as they were in the past. Radio, cable, teletype and telephone keeps the home government at their elbow. Prime ministers, presidents and cabinet ministers travel more frequently around the world on diplomatic missions.

Embassies compile agendas, arrange banquets and accommodations for retinues of under-secretaries, secretaries of under-secretaries, interpreters and specialists on this and that who accompany "summit" personalities, instead of conducting vital, high-level discussions as they did in pre-1940 days.

Nations are spending more on their embassies than ever. It has become a matter of prestige. No longer is it enough to have a bay-windowed villa with the flag drooping outside.

Ambassadorial importance has declined in inverse proportion to the growth of embassies. Embassy staffs have increased enormously, perhaps in obedience to Parkinson's Law which maintains that "paper work" is self-multiplying — it produces more paper work which requires more staff which produces more paper work, which requires more staff, ad infinitum.

Nationals in embassies are increasingly claiming diplomatic immunity. There have been instances of embassy cooks and chauffeurs claiming immunity from the laws of the country to which their ambassador is accredited.

After the Napoleonic Wars, the nations were in a conciliatory mood and part of the peace settlement at the Congress of Vienna in 1815 was a codification of ancient diplomatic privileges which had grown up with custom since Biblical times.

Now they obviously need overhauling. Changes in international diplomacy in a century and a half suggest the time has come for a fresh view.

Mobutu's Broken Promises

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The U.S. State Department and the CIA, apparently acting on the theory that any government is better than no government, support the regime of President Joseph Mobutu in the Congo. This, in a rough — a very rough — way, makes sense. Mobutu has drawn back from taking the "revolutionary" way of adhering to the Soviet-Nasser line in world affairs; he has kept his Israeli military advisers despite pan-arab pressure; and, with the help of three U.S. planes, he has managed to hold the Congo together. But someone should tell him that a promise is a promise, and that the spider that invited the fly into its parlor is not something to be imitated by statesmen who need the world's trust in order to live.

The kidnapping of Moise Tshombe, ex-Premier of the Congo, was Mobutu's first attempt to break the fabric of international trust in order to wreak bloody vengeance on his enemies. Tshombe, an accepted resident in Spain, was seized over the Mediterranean by plane hijackers, who took him to Algeria. But Mobutu has not yet managed to prevail upon Algeria's President Boumedienne to permit the extradition of Tshombe for trial and execution on a "treason" charge in the Congo. Reports from Algiers indicate that Boumedienne may let Tshombe go free.

No matter what the sins of Tshombe may have been, his kidnapping was an illegal act, a betrayal of the promises that go with the right of asylum and the right to unmolested travel. Now Mobutu is trying to strike at the sanctity of promises in another direction. He has asked that the white mercenaries who were evacuated by the International Red Cross from the Congo to little Rwanda should be handed over to his tender mercies for a trial that could end only in a mass hanging party.

No doubt the one hundred mercenaries who sought protection in Rwanda after holding out for a long time at Bukavu in the Congo are no better than they should be. But the point is that they gave up their Congo insurrection only after they had received promises from the International Red Cross that they would be repatriated to their own countries. The Organization of African Unity, with headquarters in Addis Ababa in Ethiopia, had invited the Red Cross to evacuate the mercenaries to Rwanda after Mobutu had promised that he would not seek their extradition. Well, nobody expects the spider to behave in a trustworthy manner toward a fly, so the Mobutu who tried to catch Moise Tshombe in spite of international law could be considered to be acting in character when he double-crossed the Red Cross.

But the Organization of African Unity has no business going back on its word. Nor has the U.S. State Department any business sitting still while Mobutu forgets his own promises.

Senator Tom Dodd of Connecticut has sent a telegram to Secretary of State Dean Rusk urging that the U.S. protest to President Kayianda of Rwanda the proposed extradition of one hundred mercenaries. The International Red Cross, in a communication signed by its President Conrad, has already made its feelings known. But something more than a protest is needed. The U.S. has influence with Mobutu, who has depended on our planes for mobility inside his own country. It also has influence with the more moderate members of the Organization of African Unity. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's recent trip to Liberia, Ethiopia, Kenya, and other African nations offers an index to the African capitals that might be disposed to keep the OAU from breaking its collective word in the case of the mercenaries.

As for Mobutu, he doesn't know the value of leaving well enough alone. If the mercenaries, under the wily leadership of Colonel Jean Schramme, had not been promised sanctuary and repatriation to their own countries by the Red Cross and the OAU and Mobutu himself, they would still be racketing around in the Congo. And Mobutu, lacking the firepower and control of jungle communications necessary to catch Schramme, would still be chasing the mercenaries. Mobutu made a good deal for himself in getting Schramme out of there on promises that the mercenaries would not return. This ought to satisfy everybody; broken promises and a new orgy of bloodletting will only mean more trouble for the Congo tomorrow.

The STAG party's slogan—to be printed on its buttons—will be "We Can't Stand Pat—Paulsen for Prexy." And it will feature bumper stickers which will destroy themselves in three months.

And—seriously, folks, as they say in TV—the Paulsen for President put-on will be a big item on the comedy-variety show until early September when, after the two major parties have had their conventions, the STAG convention will be held on camera. The noncandidate will reveal some of his noncampaigning plans Wednesday night on "The Johnny Carson Show"—if some other noncandidates don't get out an injunction against him before that.

Thursday night's 90-minute Bob Hope Christmas show will be unrolled without any commercials beyond the preliminary announcement about the name of the single sponsor presenting the program.

ABC has set Jan. 28 as the date to show the 1965 "Ship of Fools," which will run on a Sunday night for two hours and 45 minutes—from 9 p.m. to 11:45 EST, which means without very much editing.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pat Paulsen, the deadpan, double-talk editorialist on "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" who specializes in satire, arrived in New York Monday to launch his noncandidate campaign for president—or anything.

Paulsen's noncandidate will be announced formally on the CBS program Jan. 28.

"Some over-enthusiastic people are suggesting that I become involved," said Paulsen, toying thoughtfully with a cigarette. "But, if nominated I don't think I'll run, and if elected, I don't think I'll here."

"Clubs seem to be springing up in my behalf all over the country," he continued. "But although I am unable to say anything at this time, I am glad of an opportunity so early in my campaign to deny that I am running."

At this point Paulsen asked that any further quotations be attributed to either a "spokesman" or "a close associate."

A spokesman explained that the candidate would represent the "Straight Talking American Government party," or "STAG Party." He said that a platform was being drawn up by "over-enthusiastic, unsolicited supporters."

"He will campaign for positive thinking," said the spokesman. "As Roosevelt said, the only thing to fear is fear itself and, of course, the bogey man."

"About the war on poverty, he thinks we have enough of it. And, on crime in the streets, he suggests that it be moved indoors. Hippies should be reduced, and he agrees completely with Herbert Humphrey on urban development: New York City and Pueblo, Colorado, should be torn down and rebuilt."

"Let the rest of the country root hog," the spokesman concluded.

The STAG party's slogan—to be printed on its buttons—will be "We Can't Stand Pat—Paulsen for Prexy." And it will feature bumper stickers which will destroy themselves in three months.

And—seriously, folks, as they say in TV—the Paulsen for President put-on will be a big item on the comedy-variety show until early September when, after the two major parties have had their conventions, the STAG convention will be held on camera.

A GREAT HORSE, favorite for the Kentucky Derby, found itself domiciled in a Louisville stable between two rather stolid steeds who weren't able to converse intelligently on any subject for more than three minutes. The great horse gave up after several vain attempts, neighing disgustedly to a trainer, "I'm stalling between two fools."

Don Sauers, founder of the American Society of Girl Watchers, has just published a new version of his invaluable guide. It is described as "a book for the red-blooded man who would rather look at a girl than a hedge sparrow," and is selling, because of the miniskirt vogue, at an unprecedented rate. "The first thing the serious girl watcher must do," cautions Prof. Sauers, "is sweep his mind clear of lesser subjects. For instance, he should not watch girls while pouring hot coffee." In parting, the good professor reminds us that distance lends enchantment. "A girl watcher who asks a stranger for her name and phone number," he moralizes, "is like a bird watcher who steals eggs."

From the pages of a "humor compendium" published in 1904: Boy Friend: "You're dancing with me tonight, but I'll bet you'll be dating another man tomorrow." Girl Friend: "You said it! My foot specialist."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

For the past two winters my daughter, aged 3, develops severe spells of croup. They absolutely terrify her and us, her parents. What causes croup and is there any way to avoid these attacks.

Mrs. C. M., Illinois

Dear Mrs. M.: Croup is probably one of the most distressing conditions for a young infant, the parents and the physician. Fortunately, severe attacks of croup are becoming less frequent than they were before the discovery of the antibiotics and cortisone.

Croup is an inflammation and infection of the lining of the throat, the larynx, or windpipe, and the lungs. The disease occurs most frequently in infants and young children who have a narrow windpipe. As the child grows older, swelling of the lining of the windpipe does not as easily interfere with breathing. The disease tends to occur most frequently in the late winter or the early spring.

Virus and streptococcus infections cause a sudden thickening of the mucous membrane and produce a thick material which interferes with breathing.

Difficulty in breathing may suddenly follow an ordinary cold. High fever and a barking cough identifies croup.

Steam inhalations are probably the most soothing treatment for the difficulty in breathing and the barking cough. Physicians frequently suggest that the child be held in the mother's arms in a bathroom filled with steam until they can arrive to treat the child with other methods.

There are many excellent cold and warm vaporizers which produce a great deal of moisture. An open umbrella covered by a sheet makes an excellent steam tent.

The use of medicines in the steam vaporizer is virtually worthless. Benzoin, menthol and camomile tea are pleasant smelling but have no medical contribution to the health of the child or for the relief of croup.

Antibiotics are given in large doses along with cortisone preparations in order to control the infection and to reduce the swelling of the mucous membrane of the windpipe.

When croup becomes severe the best place, of course, is in a hospital that is prepared to handle this special problem. Oxygen is sometimes used along with a variety of aerosol solutions to cut down the thickness of the secretions in the lungs.

Attacks of croup can very often be reduced if infected tonsils and adenoids are removed. Allergic children may benefit from the use of antihistamines during their allergic periods.

It is almost impossible to keep children free of colds, no matter how well they are isolated and protected. Parental and grandparental kissing games other than on the arms and the back of the neck should be discouraged. Croup is an unpleasant condition which, fortunately, is far more easily controlled.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The best counsel ever received by many of America's small businessmen has come to them free. But for those who gave it, few expenses have been more profitable.

SCORE, an acronym for Service Corps of Retired Executives, is the domestic equivalent of the International Executive Service Corps, which aids foreign businessmen. Both are made up of "young" retirees and are sometimes called Paunch Corps.

In a recent case, SCORE's Raphael Gross, 73, a former engineering executive, was assigned to aid the proprietor of a storefront chocolate candy company. The woman owner had problems with modernizing.

Gross concluded after many visits that new belting and cooling equipment was needed. He assisted in arranging a $10,000 loan with the small business Administration. He helped choose the equipment and found a company to make it.

Said the proprietor, whose business now is on the road to profits: "He was just like a good, good friend. I just wouldn't have had any business otherwise. Now I can go on to get more business."

Gross received no money for his services, but a clue to his motivation was found in his SCORE application: "I will never be able to give back to America what America gave to me," said Gross, a native of Cincinnati.

There are some 3,000 men like Gross in 180 SCORE offices around the country—lawyers, engineers, accountants, bankers, advertising men, sales managers — offering their brains ideas and knowhow to small businessmen.

"We're all vital guys who don't want to vegetate," said Arthur Littman, 69, president of New York SCORE. "All these fellows," he said, "want to use their time and talent, serve their fellow man. It keeps them alive."

SCORE, now about four years old, was organized by the Small Business Administration and is still sponsored by that agency. SBA provides the office space and the clerical help.

Beyond these, modest expenses, SCORE costs neither the government or its client any money except for minor out-of-pocket costs. Yet it is willing to accept the headaches and save the life's work of almost any small businessman who applies.

In fact, you don't have to be in business yet to obtain SCORE advice. "Many times we discourage people planning to go into business," said Littman. And sometimes SCORE's advice to an existing company is to close its doors.

How would a retired executive apply for a counselor job? Simply by writing to his nearest small business administration office, whose address and number is listed in the telephone directory.

"We turn down very few applicants," said Littman.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you forging ahead or falling behind in the old rat race?

Just as you go to the doctor for an annual physical overhaul, it is wise to give your status a periodic checkup, for in our civilization a fellow who has lost his status is in a social graveyard — whether he knows it or not.

But how can one be sure, since sometimes when your best friend won't tell you?

Well, here's a simple status test gratis. You're still climbing up the ladder, if —

You have more credit cards in your wallet than you do pictures of your family.

Other guys in the office wash-room stand respectfully aside when you reach for a towel to dry your hands.

You received 10 more Christmas cards last year than you did the year before.

The bookies call you to see if you want to place any racetrack bets instead of waiting for you to phone them.

Either you take a winter vacation in Florida or manage — sometime between the first of January and the middle of March — to attend an important business convention in Arizona, Honolulu, Puerto Rico or the Bahamas.

Whereas formerly you used to take your family ice skating at a local pond, you now take them for a weekend at a ski resort.

You are considering taking up polo because the people you meet on golf links these days seem to have become so dreadfully common. Naturally, you gave away your bowling ball long ago.

Most of the groceries your family consumes are delivered to the rear door, and you settle the bill by check.

Your wife puts in more time at her hairdresser's than used to spend shopping for bargains at the supermarket.

The reason that you don't make an annual contribution to your college's alumni fund isn't that you can't afford to — it's because of annoyance that you haven't been elected yet to the board of trustees.

If there are any leftovers in your refrigerator, the maid is the one who has to eat them.

The gin you drink in your martini is bottled for you by a snobbish little old bootmaker in Britain who sells only to a clientele that has been especially recommended.

When your pet dog gets sick, you don't take him to the veterinarian. You are so important that the veterinarian makes a house call.

The house you live in has more bathrooms than the number of rooms in the house you were born in.

Instead of playing the numbers game, you now play the stock market. You like to brag when you make a killing even though, as you admit ruefully to close friends, "it'll only muddy my tax picture."

In your home you keep a pistol and rifle hidden, just in case the Communists should change their tactics and attack the outer suburbs where you live.

Now and then you wonder whether the game is worth the candle.

Brother, you don't have to worry about lack of status. Your problem is to keep from being suffocated by status.

Ames Leaves Series

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next season television's Daniel Boone will have to prowl the wilderness without his Oxford-educated Indian pal, Mingo. Ed Ames is cutting out on his own.

Ames made the announcement today: He will not return for a fifth season of "Daniel Boone," in which he stars with Fess Parker. Whether or not the series itself will be back has not yet been decided, but its ratings this year seem to be good enough to warrant a return.

Why would an actor pull out of a successful television series? Ames explained:

"The simple truth is that the show has served its purpose for me. It performed the very valuable function of providing tremendous exposure for me over a four-year period. The placing of my name before a huge audience week after week was an enormous advantage to my career."

"On the other hand, I believe I was of some assistance to 'Daniel Boone.' I did a great number of personal appearances to help plug the series. And I think that Mingo was a strong character that contributed to the effectiveness of the show. But now it's time to move on."

The career of Ed Ames offers an example of how talent and drive can be combined to keep a career moving forward against a variety of hazards. Along with older brothers Kole, Gene, and Vic, he starred on records and in night clubs with the Ames Brothers — real name: Urlick. Despite Las Vegas salaries of $20,000 a week, the three elder Ames tired of the nomadic life and quit the business for normal lives. Not Ed. He started working in plays off-Broadway at $80 a week.

Roles in "The Crucible," "Fantasticks" and "Carnival" convinced producers Ames was more than a quartet singer, and the call came for "Daniel Boone." Most actors in successful series are content to rest on their residuals. Again the Ames ambition prevailed.

He polished up his vocal style and began making single records. After a number of near-misses, he hit with "My Cup Runneth Over." The title was prophetic. Offers for guest starrings in TV variety shows poured in. Ames spent a bundle to work up a night club act which paid off in munificent bookings; he is now playing in Las Vegas.

Were Winters More Severe in Bygone Days

By BETTY DAWLEY
Herald Staff Writer

Were the winters of bygone days more severe than our present winter or the winters of the recent past? Many have said so. Is it a fact or fanciful recollection?

Brief research into Ohio Weather Bureau records and interviews with local city and county residents garnered factual information on the oft-posed question.

From a near centenarian, Mr. Joe Shortridge of Jackson Twp., winters of years ago were no more severe than any recent ones. The one outstanding contrast is more drifting of snow

Freeze Over In Spending For Engineers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson Administration has lifted a public works freeze it imposed last October on Army Engineer and Reclamation Bureau projects.

The freeze applied to construction contracts for new projects of the two agencies and to contracts for new features of projects already under way.

There was no official announcement that the freeze had ended but congressional committees were notified of the action Monday—opening day of the new session—and a Budget Bureau spokesman later confirmed it.

Congressional sources pointed out, however, that the two agencies, which are concerned chiefly with various types of water projects, still must live within financial limitations of a resolution Congress passed last year directing the administration to cut domestic spending $4.1 billion.

6 Ohio Men Die in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP)—An unusually long list of U.S. Vietnam war casualties released Monday by the Defense Department includes the names of six Ohioans, four killed recently in action and two who died of wounds.

Army Staff Sgt. Samuel J. Helfenstine, Cincinnati, and Army Cpl. Gordon L. Goins, Eaton.

Navy Boatswain's Mate 3. C. Terry L. Meyer, Wauseon.

Air Force 1st Lt. Paul D. Strahm, Sheffield Lake.

Two Army men who died of wounds were Sgt. Donald R. Bruckner, North Olmsted, and Pfc. Michael D. Marks, University Heights.

THE FEELING expressed by the message on this U.S. Marine's helmet no doubt is universal in South Vietnam. He is having chow after battling with North Viets 20 miles south of Da Nang.

in recent years caused by the loss of great expanses of timber land.

Most vivid in his memory is the often referred to snow of November, 1950, when a mammoth snow buried the area bringing all activities to an abrupt halt. Area residents were left isolated for days. It was the worst storm recorded in 37 years for Pickaway County.

Mrs. Mary Beers of the Ashville area and an agile 97 years of age, agrees that winters, over the years, with few exceptions, have no marked contrasts and she has seen many winters.

Both informants agree that a winter season was for a longer period of time. It was heralded in by November and extended through much of March.

Statistically, reference is made to the years 1918, 1919, and 1920. Temperatures and recorded snowfall for the months of November through February for each of those years has but three significant recordings. January, 1918 had an astounding 28 inches of snowfall. Snow occurred almost daily throughout the month. Temperatures averaged 14-17 degrees. December 1918 was the warmest December in 85 years with temperatures vacillating at 40-42 for the month.

A four-month period in 1919 had only a two-inch snowfall in December. The only one that occurred in the entire period was over a mere trace.

In November of 1920, temperatures fell to below normal and averaged a minus two degrees. Six inches of snow were recorded for that month, most of it falling on the 16th and 17th. This snowstorm was unprecedented for that date.

Severe winter weather in Pickaway County proves to be an abnormal exception. The present weather is an abnormal exception, as most will agree.

Past winters were different, but only in the way they were lived, not in meteorological change.

Years ago people were more exposed to the elements for longer periods of time. Lack of modern utilities and automotive services meant fewer comforts. Yet, when recalling past winters to mind, neither the alert Mrs. Beers nor Mr. Shortridge spoke of any winter as being particularly harsh.

Over the years, winters have been altered in fantasy only, for who can repudiate the facts?

New Debate On War Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The newly reconvened Congress appears headed for another debate on U.S. bombing of North Vietnam in the wake of a nonpartisan group's assessment that U.S. air attacks offer no "cut-rate route to victory."

As the 90th Congress reassembled Monday for its second session, the group that includes former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and retired Army Gen. Omar N. Bradley said the military effectiveness of the bombing was overrated—while contending it is not the obstacle to peace talks its critics contend.

A march to Capitol Hill by some 3,000 women opposing U.S. participation in Vietnam also focused congressional attention on the war.

Yugoslavia Gives Soviets a Base

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Yugoslavia has given the Russians a naval base at the Adriatic port of Split to help shore up President Gamal Abdel Nasser's regime, the Israeli newspaper daily Maariy reported today.

The paper's Paris correspondent said reliable foreign sources reported the agreement between President Tito and Soviet leaders has been kept secret, but observers have noted that Soviet warships sail regularly between Split and Egyptian ports.

NCR Groups In Dayton, WCH Vote

CINCINNATI (AP) — Almost 1,500 employees at National Cash Register Co. plants in Dayton and Washington Court House will vote in an election which will involve 1,400 production and maintenance employees at the Dayton and Washington Court House plants. Another will involve 35 pressmen and assistants employed at Washington Court House.

Unions seeking recognition for the production and maintenance employees are the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders (AFL-CIO); the International Union of Electrical Workers (AFL-CIO); the NCR Employees' Independent Union and the United Steelworkers (AFL-CIO).

Those four along with the Dayton Union No. 54 of the In-Involved in the Pressmen's and Assistants (AFL-CIO) will be involved in the Pressmen's election.

The workers also may vote to reject all the unions. In the pressmen's election, the NLRB said if the employees do not favor the Pressmen's Union their votes will be lumped with those cast by the production and maintenance workers.

Cash Crisis In Housing Said Averted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The housing and home mortgage industries have apparently weathered the first money crisis of the new year and leaders report no evidence the 1966 housing recession will be repeated in 1968.

But industry sources said the potential home-buyer can expect to pay high interest rates throughout the year although some slight reduction is anticipated if Congress raises taxes and cuts federal spending.

They don't foresee interest rates dropping below the six percent level—a point surpassed in early 1966—in any event.

The industry optimism stems in part from preliminary reports indicating the nation's savings and loan associations—the largest single source of home loan money—escaped a possible large withdrawal of savings early this month.

Economists both in and out of government had feared savers might withdraw money from their accounts in early January for investments paying a higher interest rate.

The turn of the year was the key time since it marked the end of one investment period and the start of another. A saver could collect a dividend on his account at that time and then withdraw the money, thus reducing the amount available for mortgage loans.

Nigerian Civil War Continues

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria's military rulers spent the second anniversary today of their Jan. 16 coup fighting a civil war which threatens to become bloodier.

Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, 33, head of the federal military government, two weeks ago targeted March 31 as the date for the end of the six-month war against the rebellious regime of Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, 34, in eastern Nigeria.

Ojukwu declared the region independent last May 30 and named it Biafra. Federal troops invaded in July to end the secession.

Girl Scouts Go Camping For Weekend

Girl Scout Troop 1051 spent the past weekend in Trumbull Lodge at Camp Ken Jockey.

New patrols were selected and the girls voted for patrol leaders. All had a chance to perfect their cooking and camping skills.

A winter wonderland was the setting for a "Scouts Own" conducted by Debra Payne, Janet Osborn, Joni Foster, Mary Schuer and Sally Graves. With "peace" as their theme, the girls stood around a trefol which they had carved from snow. A part of the ceremony was reading of a poem written by Mary Schuer.

Other girls attending were Paula Allison, Diane Berrigan, Barbara Brackett, Cheryl Brian, Amy Curtiss, Linda Davies, Suzanne Herel, Pam Miller, Rhonda Miller, Debbie Murray, Sheila Myers, Janie O'Brien, Rita Schuer, Carolyn Tammany and Pam Yseng.

The girls were accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Howard Davies, and assistant leader, Mrs. Ben Brian. Mrs. Paul Berrigan, Mrs. William Curtiss and Mrs. William Schuer also accompanied the scouts.

Youth Program Presented at Circle Meet

Hamilton-Marshall Circle of First Methodist Church met Wednesday morning in the church lounge.

Geneva Archer presented a program entitled "Where Do We Go From Here?" The program pointed out the need for a flexible ministry fitted to youth. In Sept., dedicated adult leadership will be needed as group leaders for informal personal groups of 15-20 youths. They will work with the youth for church guidance.

A trip to Columbus, April 18, is planned where members will visit the South Side Settlement. McKelvey Hall and Goodwill Industries where lunch will be served.

A church-wide study on Japan is taking place the four Sunday evenings in January. A snack type lunch will be served 5 p. m. Jan. 28, by the WSCS. Baby sitting will be provided.

The Feb. 7 general meeting will be a 12:30 p. m. carry-in luncheon with Jacobs Circle in charge. Mrs. Robert Weaver will be guest speaker.

For cleanup day on Jan. 25, Hamilton-Marshall Circle is assigned the west cupboard as its project.

A vote of thanks was given to Nancy Ranck and all who worked on the Christmas baskets.

Geneva Archer closed the meeting with a prayer.

Saltcreek Club Plans Annual Fox Drive

Saltcreek Town and Country Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Mary Lou Maxson, Route 1, Laurelville.

Mrs. Peggy Jones, president, conducted the business session which was opened with prayer. Final plans were made for the annual Fox Drive to be held Jan. 27.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Esther Collins, Mrs. Karen Hoffman, Mrs. Lois Jones, Mrs. Janice Jones, Mrs. Mary Justice, Mrs. Ann Luckhart, Mrs. Susan Martin, Mrs. Wanda Seimer and Mrs. Becky Valentine.

WSWS Meets In Calvary EUB Church

The January meeting of WSWS of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church was held recently in the church annex.

Mrs. Gertrude Shasteen, president, opened the business meeting by asking that members keep their New Year's resolutions and be faithful in attendance. She then led the opening prayer.

Mrs. Shasteen announced World Service Day is Feb. 4, and the Rev. Biddle as guest speaker.

Plans were made for a committee to be appointed for the Mother-Daughter social scheduled for later this year.

Mrs. Shasteen reported on the Council of Church Women's meeting she attended. The World Day of Prayer will be March 1, at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Program for the evening was under the direction of Mrs. Louise Niswender, entitled "Faiths of Men." She also presented a playlet, "The Convert." Closing prayer was presented by Mrs. Earl Milliron. Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. Carl Agin and Mrs. Bill Ankrom.

Graduate Study Offered by Women's Group

Plans have been made in Ohio by the American Association of University Women to financially help mature women return to college for advanced study in preparation for professional positions on college faculties.

A candidate must plan a full-time career in higher education and meet these other requirements: 1. Be at least 35 years of age and hold at least a bachelor's degree; 2. Not recently have been studying for a graduate degree and not recently have had faculty status; 3. Be able to give one academic year to full-time study as defined by the graduate school she chooses.

The College Faculty Program will provide each woman selected with tuition and fees.

The program is also designed to search for funds on local level by the branch chapters of AAUW. Anyone who wishes additional information or to be a part of the program may make a gift payable to the AAUW Education Foundation, College Faculty Program or contact Mrs. David Gillespie, 474-6913, Chairman of College Faculty Program, Circleville Branch of AAUW.

Applicants are invited to write for more information and application blanks to College Faculty Program, 2401 Virginia Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C. 20037. Deadline to apply is February, 1968.

LINDA L. GARRETT

Linda Garrett Engaged to Robert Cotton

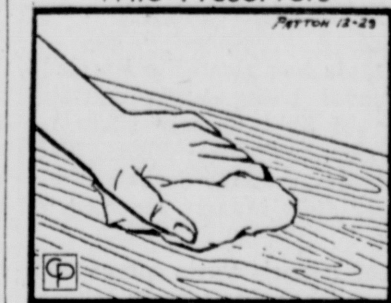

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garrett, 421 Watt St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda L., to Robert David Cotton, son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Cotton, 611 S. Scioto St.

Miss Garrett is presently employed by Bingman's Drug Store.

Mr. Cotton is a graduate of Circleville High School. He is employed by the City Water Department.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Wife Preservers

Remove water spots from varnished surfaces by rubbing with a paste of cigarette ashes and salad or sewing machine oil.

Faulty Valve Blamed in Blast

CINCINNATI (AP)—City Manager William O. Wichman says a malfunction of a valve regulator on a gas line caused the explosion in an old downtown building used as a neighborhood youth center last Dec. 28. Two persons were seriously injured.

Wichman, making the report to City Council Monday, said water seepage corroded the valve and a gas vent near the boiler room of the city-owned building, allowing the gas fumes to accumulate.

Worker Killed

CLEVELAND (AP) — John J. Leciejewski, 40, Garfield Heights, an employee of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., was killed Monday when the walls of a ditch 11 feet deep collapsed in Brecksville. A coworker was injured.

CC League Shows Movie During Meet

Child Conservation League met recently in the home of Mrs. Fritz Jacobs, 922 Circle Drive. The movie "A Quarter-million Teenagers," was shown.

New members of the group are Mrs. Ronald Knecht and Mrs. John Dunlap III.

Announcement was made that the annual puppet show will be held Sat., Feb. 24. The program will be "Puss 'n Boots."

A discussion was held concerning the league's obligation to the now non-existent Pickaway County Assn. of Women's Clubs and the Historical Society.

Guests present to see the movie which dealt with the problem of venereal diseases were Mrs. Lincoln Mader, representing the Board of Education; Mrs. Pauline Kirkpatrick, City Health Nurse, and Dr. Frank Moore, president of Pickaway County Medical Society. The movie was being considered as a possibility of being shown in the schools as part of a proposed sex education course.

Columbus East Tops Class AA Cage Poll; Ross Leads Class A

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Powerful Columbus East was in a familiar spot today, holding down first place in the Associated Press weekly high school basketball ratings.

Two South Central Ohio League cage teams were mentioned in the Class AA ratings released for the first time today by the Associated Press.

Miami Trace received 14 points and Greenfield 12 in the weekly poll.

Westfall, loser of only one game and with four wins over Class AA schools, had seven points in the ratings for Class A schools. The only team to beat Westfall this year, Southeastern, was rated number one in Class A. Amanda Clearcreek, whose only loss has been to Westfall, had six points.

Coach Bob Hart's unbeaten Tigers collected 208 points from the sports writer and sportscasters who vote in the poll for a commanding 88-point margin over perennial power Middletown.

The Tigers, who have swept aside 10 straight foes, had an all-winning regular season a year ago before eventual state champion Columbus Linden-McKinley burst the bubble in regional play.

East measured Linden 72-70, 10 days ago and also holds 80-57 decision over fifth-ranked Newark and a 60-49 triumph over No. 11 Canton McKinley.

The mighty Middles had a string of 10 going until Fairfield snapped it rather rudely last Friday, 95-81.

Cleveland East (10-0) is ranked third followed by Toledo Central (10-0); Newark (10-1); Linden (9-2); Zanesville (9-1); East Liverpool (9-0); Cuyahoga Falls (10-1) and Euclid (11-0).

Once-beaten Ross Southeastern is the No. 1 club in the Class A ratings. Northwestern (Wayne) is second on 55 points, nine back of the leaders. Ross is 13-1, Northwestern 12-1.

Unbeaten Canal Winchester is third on the strength of an 1-0 record while Western (Pike), boasting a 13-0 log, is fourth.

Guernsey Catholic (11-0) is No. 5 followed by Convo Crestview (13-0); Arcamum

(9-2); Buckeye Valley (10-0); Avon (9-0); and St. Henry (14-0) and Mansfield St. Peter (9-2) in a tie for tenth.

Here's the way the teams are rated in The Associated Press poll of Ohio's high school basketball teams: (points on a 10, 9, 8, etc., basis):

School	W	L	Pts.
1. Columbus East	10	0	208
2. Middletown	10	1	120
3. Cleveland East	10	0	94
4. Toledo Central	10	0	77
5. Newark	10	1	74
6. Columbus Linden	9	2	56
7. Zanesville	9	1	36
8. East Liverpool	9	0	35
9. Cuyahoga Falls	10	1	33
10. Euclid	11	0	32

Others—Canton McKinley 30; Portsmouth 29; Dayton Dunbar 24; Canton Lincoln 23; Worthington and Lima Shawnee 16; Toledo Libbey 15; Lorain Senior, Hamilton Garfield and Miami Trace 14; Ontario 13; Chillicothe, Greenfield and Columbus West 12; Cleveland East Tech, Athens and Marion Harding 11; Brookfield, Kent Roosevelt and Fairfield 10; Canton Lehman, Waverly, Cleveland St. Joseph, Beaver Local and Cleveland South 9; Gahanna Lincoln, Cleveland West Tech, Cincinnati Elder and Cincinnati Anderson 8; East Palestine and Grove City 7; Hubbard, Akron Hower, Tipp City and Cleveland John Hay 6; Tallmadge 5; Columbus Eastmoor, Colerain, Hamilton Adin and Dayton Chaminade 4; Cincinnati LaSalle, Steubenville, Perrysburg, Akron Firestone and Dayton Roth 3; Columbus South, Eastlake North, Canton South, Marlington, Dayton Belmont and Sandusky 2; Ashtabula, Massillon, Elyria, Wooster, Centerville, Sandusky Perkins, Lima Senior and Loveland 1.

AAU Feud Over Athlete Control Takes New Track

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Ryun of Kansas the world's fastest miler, and Dave Patrick of Villanova, presently rounding into the best shape of his sub-four-minute-mile career, may run the mile against each other Feb. 9.

The race would probably be the high point of the 1968 indoor track and field season. And it could—in theory at least—cost Ryun, Patrick and some 200 other athletes a chance to go to the Olympics.

The Amateur Athletic Union fired the latest round in its interminable battle with the National Collegiate Athletic Association Monday. The target was the Feb. 9 track meet in New York run by the U.S. Track and Field Federation, an arm of the NCAA.

The meet, called the Madison Square Garden Invitational, will feature mostly college stars, such as Ryun Patrick, long-distance champion Gerry Lindgren and pole vault record-holder Bob Seagren.

But three of those scheduled to run—Tommy Smith of San Jose State Charlie Green of Nebraska and Wade Bell of Oregon—are no longer eligible for college competition, though they are still at their respective schools.

The AAU maintains it must sanction any meet in which non-collegians participate. The Federation will "absolutely not" ask for such a sanction, a spokesman said Monday.

Col. Don Hull, executive director of the AAU, said that any athlete competing in the meet will be reported to the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which in turn will suspend his eligibility for international events such as the Olympics.

"It would be automatic," Hull said. "The IAAF has told us specifically that in their judgment all athletes competing in open competition no sanctioned by us lose their eligibility."

As a practical matter, it is extremely unlikely that things would ever get that far. If 200 top American athletes, including Ryun, were declared ineligible for the Olympics, the halls of Congress would surely shake to such an extent that matters would be put right.

Colonels Top Houston, 115-102

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kentucky Colonels, who found the winning touch out West, continued to surge with a stopover in the South and now move east with their longest winning streak ever—three games.

Hot-shooting Jim Ligon triggered Kentucky to its 115 - 102 victory over Houston at Louisville Monday night which edged the Eastern Division cellar-dwellers to within 3½ games of New Jersey in the American Basketball Association.

In the only other ABA game, New Orleans nipped Indiana 108-107 on Doug Moe's two free throws with 13 seconds left to play.

Dave Bing Leads NBA in Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons continues to lead the National Basketball Association in scoring, but Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati has the best per-game average, statistics released today by the league revealed.

Bing has 1,246 points in 45 games for a 27.7 mark while Robertson has 1,039 points in 35 games, a 29.7 average. Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia 76ers is second in points and has a 24.2 average.

Rupp's Boys Face Strong Tennessee

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Adolph Rupp's Kentucky Wildcats have clawed their way back into the rough-and-tumble Southeastern Conference basketball race.

Ahead for the Baron is a long trip down the country road—and what shapes up as the biggest scuffle in his 38-year Bluegrass reign.

Kentucky, shunted from fourth to eighth place in The Associated Press ratings this week after a 96-78 road loss to Florida, rebounded Monday night by thrashing Georgia 104-73 in a bruising SEC game.

The Wildcats' next stops on a four-game road trip will be Knoxville, Tenn., where powerful Tennessee has rolled up 31 consecutive home-court victories, and Baton Rouge, La., where the Maravich family appears to have a dynasty in the making, at Louisiana State.

Fourth-ranked Tennessee remained unbeaten in the SEC and ran its over-all record to 10-1 with a 67-52 romp over visiting Florida and No. 9 Vanderbilt, only other nationally ranked team in action Monday night, topped Auburn 74-65 on the losers' floor for a 12-3 season mark.

The Big Eight Conference produced a pair of tight finishes. Kansas State nipping Colorado 57-56 in overtime and Missouri upending Kansas 67-66. Clemson edged Maryland 94-93 in a double overtime Atlantic Coast Conference struggle.

Washington State trounced Oregon 85-66 and Washington-trimmed Oregon State 68-56 in Pacific 8 Conference games; East Tennessee surprised Murray's Ohio Valley Conference leaders 74-67; Xavier, Ohio topped Detroit 84-81 and South Dakota stung Creighton 90-82.

Columbus East Tops Class AA Cage Poll; Ross Leads Class A

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Powerful Columbus East was in a familiar spot today, holding down first place in the Associated Press weekly high school basketball ratings.

Two South Central Ohio League cage teams were mentioned in the Class AA ratings released for the first time today by the Associated Press.

Miami Trace received 14 points and Greenfield 12 in the weekly poll.

Westfall, loser of only one game and with four wins over Class AA schools, had seven points in the ratings for Class A schools. The only team to beat Westfall this year, Southeastern, was rated number one in Class A. Amanda Clearcreek, whose only loss has been to Westfall, had six points.

Coach Bob Hart's unbeaten Tigers collected 208 points from the sports writer and sports-casters who vote in the pool for a commanding 88-point margin over perennial power Middletown.

The Tigers, who have swept aside 10 straight foes, had an all-winning regular season a year ago before eventual state champion Columbus Linden-McKinley burst the bubble in regional play.

East measured Linden 72-70, 10 days ago and also holds 80-57 decision over fifth-ranked Newark and a 60-49 triumph over No. 11 Canton McKinley.

The mighty Middies had a string of 10 going until Fairfield snapped it rather rudely last Friday, 95-81.

Cleveland East (10-0) is ranked third followed by Toledo Central (10-0); Newark (10-1); Linden (9-2); Zanesville (9-1); East Liverpool (9-0); Cuyahoga Falls (10-1) and Euclid (11-0).

Once-beaten Ross Southeastern is the No. 1 club in the Class A ratings. Northwestern (Wayne) is second on 55 points, nine back of the leaders. Ross is 13-1, Northwestern 12-1.

Unbeaten Canal Winchester is third on the strength of a 1-0 record while Western (Pike), boasting a 13-0 log, is fourth.

Guernsey Catholic (11-0) is No. 5 followed by Convoy Crestview (13-0); Arcamum

(9-2); Buckeye Valley (10-0); Avon (9-0); and St. Henry (14-0) and Mansfield St. Peter (9-2) in a tie for tenth.

Here's the way the teams are rated in The Associated Press poll of Ohio's high school basketball teams: (points on a 10, 9, 8, etc., basis):

Class AA

School	W	L	Pts.
1. Columbus East	10	0	208
2. Middletown	10	1	120

Bing has 1,246 points in 45 games for a 27.7 mark while Robertson has 1,039 points in 35 games, a 29.7 average. Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia 76ers is second in points and has a 24.2 average.

AAU Feud Over Athlete Control Takes New Track

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Ryun of Kansas the world's fastest miler, and Dave Patrick of Villanova, presently rounding into the best shape of his sub-four-minute-mile career, may run the mile against each other Feb. 9.

The race would probably be the high point of the 1968 indoor track and field season. And it could—in theory at least—cost Ryun, Patrick and some 200 other athletes a chance to go to the Olympics.

The Amateur Athletic Union fired the latest round in its interminable battle with the National Collegiate Athletic Association Monday. The target was the Feb. 9 track meet in New York run by the U.S. Track and Field Federation, an arm of the NCAA.

The meet, called the Madison Square Garden Invitational, will feature mostly college stars, such as Ryun Patrick, long-distance champion Gerry Lindgren and pole vault record-holder Bob Seagren.

But three of those scheduled to run—Tommie Smith of San Jose State Charlie Green of Nebraska and Wade Bell of Oregon—are no longer eligible for college competition, though they are still at their respective schools.

The AAU maintains it must sanction any meet in which non-collegians participate. The Federation will "absolutely not" ask for such a sanction, a spokesman said Monday.

Col. Don Hull, executive director of the AAU, said that any athlete competing in the meet will be reported to the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which in turn will suspend his eligibility for international events such as the Olympics.

"It would be automatic," Hull said. "The IAAF has told us specifically that in their judgment all athletes competing in open competition no sanctioned by us lose their eligibility."

As a practical matter, it is extremely unlikely that things would ever get that far. If 200 top American athletes, including Ryun, were declared ineligible for the Olympics, the halls of Congress would surely shake to such an extent that matters would be put right.

ELKS WEEK — Circleville Mayor Richard Gerhardt has proclaimed the week of Feb. 12 as BPOE Elks Week in Circleville. Watching the mayor sign the proclamation is Robert Huffer, exalted ruler of Circleville BPOE Lodge No. 77.

Circleville BPOE Plans Centennial

The Circleville Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will soon join thousands of other lodges throughout the United States and its possessions in observing the 100th anniversary of the order.

Mayor Richard Gerhardt has proclaimed the week of Feb. 12 as Elks Centennial Week here in Circleville.

Exalted Ruler Robert Huffer said a special birthday celebration has been called for Feb. 16, the day the order was founded 100 years ago by a group of 15 men in New York City.

The special event will kick off a year long observance of the Centennial Huffer said. A dinner for Elks and their ladies, an initiation of a Centennial class of candidates and a dance is on tap for the birthday celebration here.

SERTOMA SPEAKER—Thomas M. Flynn, assistant vice president of the City National Bank, Columbus, and director of computer service, will speak noon Wednesday at the Circleville Sertoma Club meeting held in the L-K Restaurant.

Study Firing Of Patrolman

CINCINNATI (AP) — Safety Director Henry Sacdman Monday took under advisement a recommendation that a patrolman be fired because of a traffic court conviction.

The recommendation, submitted by Police Chief Jacob Schott, was against 25-year-old Rodney Songer, whose drivers' license was suspended last week after being convicted in traffic court on charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Burglars Sizzle

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Police said burglars used a torch to burn into the back of a restaurant safe. They burned not only the safe but also about $100 in cash. The robbers got away with about $100 in coins, however, police said.

Romney Plan To Neutralize Vietnam Known To Kosygin

KEENE, N.H. (AP) — Gov. George Romney says he has discussed his proposal for guaranteed neutralization of all Vietnam with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, and reports the Russian leader expressed interest but made no commitment on the plan.

CBMC Charter Banquet Set Saturday

The Christian Business Men's Committee of Circleville will hold its charter banquet 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the 4-H and Grange Building at the Fairgrounds.

Principal speaker at the banquet will be Sam Dalton of Denver, Colo.

Charles Wellman, local member, announced a limited supply of tickets for the roast beef supper are still available. Over 300 have been sold.

The program, slated to begin at 7:30 p.m., is open to the public. The tables will be moved from the dining area and chairs will be set up to accommodate those who wish to attend.

The Circleville Bible College Choir will present the musical portion of the program.

At the charter banquet, 18 members of the local organization will become affiliated with Christian Businessmen organized mittee International, a group of Christian Business men organized in 1930.

Circleville is now one of over 500 groups in over 30 nations throughout the world.

The local group meets 6:45 a.m. each Saturday at Noel's King Boy on the Lancaster Pike.

Poster Child

Graduates Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Jeffrey Reil, the first poster child in the March of Dimes birth defects program, graduates from high school today—a day doctors once feared he would never live to see.

In 1959, when Jeffrey's poster picture appeared throughout the country, physicians told his parents they did not expect he would live long enough to finish grammar school.

nam with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, and reports the Russian leader expressed interest but made no commitment on the plan.

"If I'm elected president this is the thing that will get my immediate attention, and I'll push it as hard as I can," Romney said in outlining his Vietnam program Monday night.

The Republican governor said later in an interview that he raised the proposal during his meeting with Kosygin on Dec. 9 in Moscow.

The governor would not discuss the Moscow conversation in detail, but he said Kosygin expressed interest.

Pressing his presidential primary campaign in Munsonville today, Romney proposed a ceiling on federal spending and "a reasonable tax increase" to move the federal government toward a balanced budget in 1970.

He said that is a crucial step to combat inflation.

"Therefore, I propose a federal spending ceiling in fiscal 1969 to limit the level of total federal nondefense expenditures at not more than the 1968 level," he said in a prepared speech.

"With this spending ceiling in effect, I believe a reasonable tax increase should be approved, both as a measure to help balance the budget and to help curb inflation."

Together with expected growth in revenue as the economy grows, we could have a balanced budget in fiscal 1970.

Nuclear Carrier Trip Is Delayed

TOKYO (AP) — As leftists assembled in Sasebo to protest the visit of the nuclear-powered U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise, a Japanese government spokesman said there is a possibility the 75,000-ton ship may postpone her visit.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Toshio Kimura told news conference there have been informal reports from the U.S. government that the arrival of the Enterprise at Sasebo, in southern Japan, may be delayed or postponed.

Kimura said the ship was reported encountering heavy seas off the Bonin islands, in the western Pacific.

Talks Continue At Cincy Plant

CINCINNATI (AP) — Negotiation efforts continued today to end the 37-day strike at two Formica plants in Cincinnati. Some 1,500 electrical workers, dissatisfied with wages and wording of their contract, walked out Dec. 11.

Latest talks center around a revised proposal offered by Formica officials.

Akron Man To Fight Army Duty

CLEVELAND (AP)—An Akron Army reservist who was told he will have to report for active duty for missing reserve drill sessions has taken his case to federal court.

The reservist, James Jackson, 28, is one of the first reservists affected by a Department of the Army directive issued last summer which requires that members of the reserve be reported for active duty after five unauthorized absences from drills in one year.

Jackson, who has four months left of a six-year reserve stint, missed four drills and was late for two others in a three-month period last fall. He says he was told he could expect orders soon putting him on active duty for 18 months.

He called the action "arbitrary, unjust and discriminatory."
